Bus Smashes Into Bridge, 15 Dead At Bloomington, Ind.

By DALE BURGESS

Bloomington, Ind., Aug. 10. (AP)—Fifteen persons died in the flaming wreckage of a Greyhound bus that burned after smashing into a bridge abutment near here early today.

None of the dead has been identified.

The bus, bound from Indianapolis to Bloomington, hit the bridge on a winding, hilly road shortly after midnight. Seconds later it was in flames.

Coroner Robert W. Lyons of Monroe county said fifteen would be the death toll.

Twelve other persons were injured in the crash and are in a Bloomington hospital.

The bodies removed from the bus were placed in six ambulances and a hearse and, accompanied by a police escort, were brought to the Indiana National Guard armory here to await indentification.

Driver Wayne Cramer of Indiapolis, one of the survivors, said a front tire may have blown out, causing him to lose control of the bus. After striking the abutment it skidded 150 feet down winding Highway 37 and came to rest on its left side, blocking the emergency door.

Flames enveloped the vehicle almost immediately. The driver said he and "two or three" passengers got out the front door. The other survivors escaped through a rear window which a passenger kicked out.

Glen Van Horn, manager of radio station WTTS in Bloomington, said one of the survivors told him he "walked through five feet of flames" to get off the bus.

The survivor, Wells Richardson, 18, of Evansville, Ind., told Van Horn he was dozing when the bus struck the bridge abutment.

The bus was still smouldering several hours after the wreck. The center section was burned down to a mass of twisted metal.

Vampire Slayer Hangs In Britain

Man Drank Blood Of His Nine Victims

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—John George Haigh, self-confessed vampire, slayer of nine Britons, was hanged today at Wadsworth prison.

The handsome, 39-year-old business executive was convicted July 19 of murdering a well-to-do widow, Mrs. Olivia Durand-Deacon, 69, for her money.

A jury rejected a defense plea of insanity and sentenced Haigh to death.

At his two-day trial, the prosecution introduced a statement in which Haigh confessed to police that he killed eight other persons besides Mrs. Durand Deacon and drank their blood.

With the execution Scotland Yard closed the record on England's most sensational murder case in years. At the brief trial a defense mental specialist testified Haigh was driven insane by dreams of blood.

After drinking the blood of his victims, Haigh told police, he dissolved the bodies in bubbling acid baths. The dapper killer did not testify in his own defense.

Houghton Lake, Mich., Aug. 10 (AP)—A Detroit man and wife who mysteriously vanished on a motor trip to Traverse City Friday were located today—vacationing at Houghton Lake.

Wrobel walked into the Houghton Lake state police post this morning and identified himself. He said he had just heard a radio report that his son had reported him missing.

The son, George, jr., 29, of Detroit, reported the disappearance of his parents after they had failed to meet him in Traverse City at 1 a. m. Saturday as planned. The families, both driving up from Detroit, were to have vacationed together on Torch Lake, near Traverse City.

Detroit Acts To Ban Reds On City Payroll

Detroit, Aug. 10 (AP)—City officials moved today to redraft the proposed charter loyalty amendment so it can go before the voters in the general election Nov. 8.

The amendment would permit the city to keep Communists off its payroll.

The common council decided by a close vote yesterday against overriding Gov. Williams' rejection of the amendment.

The governor said Attorney General Stephen Roth believed the wording of one section in the amendment would not stand up in court if it should be challenged later.

After a sharp debate, the council voted 4-4 on the question of overriding Williams' ruling. A two-thirds majority was needed, so the question lost.

Councilman Edward D. Conner immediately moved that the assistant corporation counsel be instructed to draw up a new amendment. His motion was accepted 6 to 2.

Roth had ruled that section 6 of the amendment was unconstitutional because it delegated legislative power to federal authorities. The section would have permitted a proposed loyalty board to declare an employe disloyal if he belonged to an organization on the subversive list of the U. S. attorney general or the FBI.

The attorney general said such a provision violated two decisions of the Michigan supreme court.

Councilman John Kronk assailed Williams for not handing down his decision in time for the amendment to have been revised, approved and included on the Sept. 13 primary ballot.

Police Fight Mob, Arrest Flier For Slaying Mother

Cleveland, Aug. 10 (AP)—Battling back an angry crowd of about 150 persons, police early today took a 24-year-old air force member into custody for questioning in the killing of his widowed mother.

William Bucarich, 24, home on leave from the air force, was covered with blood and in tears when police arrested him on the stairway leading to his second-floor apartment home.

Neighbors a short time before had found his mother, Mrs. Mary Bucarich, 49, dying of a revolver bullet wound near her heart.

Police Lt. Jack Duder said Bucarich claimed his revolver went off accidentally while he was showing it to his mother. The neighbors told Duder they heard the pair quarreling.

Bucarich was held without charge for further questioning.

Senate Approves Funds To Study Lamprey Menace

Washington, Aug. 9. (AP)—The senate Tuesday passed a bill authorizing the interior department to construct or enlarge several fish hatcheries over the country. It also provides for two studies of fish problems.

Authorizations contained in the bill include construction of a fish hatchery in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, to cost $325,000, and a broadened investigation of means of eradicating the predatory sea lamprey in the Great Lakes. It would cost an estimated $359,000 the first year and $216,000 annually for probably six more years.

Truman Signs Bill To Unify Armed Forces

Great Advance Seen In U. S. Defense

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP) — President Truman today signed the new armed services unification bill. He said that this will permit the United States to progress toward "a balanced and effective national defense."

Mr. Truman signed the measure in a ceremony in his oval room office. Senators and representatives who handled the legislation, the heads of the defense establishment and top ranking Army, Navy and Air Force "brass" looked on.

The legislation, which strengthens Secretary of Defense Johnson's control over the entire military setup, drew one criticism from Mr. Truman.

One Backward Step

"It is unfortunate that in this generally progressive legislation at least one provision represents a backward step," the president said in a brief statement.

"New and cumbersome restrictions are placed on the membership of the National Security Council—whereas the desirable course would be to follow the recommendation of the commission on organization of the executive branch and remove the statutory restrictions on the council's membership."

As a whole, however, Mr. Truman said the bill "represents a great advance" and will lead to "increased efficiency and economy and greater coordination of our military forces."

This second major step in unification of the Army, Navy and Air Forces marks a victory for Mr.

Joint Chiefs Stress Urgent Need For Arms In Europe

Mae West Wows 'Culture Crazy' Set In Colorado

Central City, Colo., Aug. 10 (AP)—Brooklyn born Mae West, who says she brought sex out of the back room, is wowing 'em in this state—called "culture crazy Colorado" by a New York critic.

The musty old Central City opera house, dark 10 months out of the year, is crowded nightly for Mae's saga of sin titled "Diamond Lil." She introduced the play 20 years ago in New York when she was in her middle 30s.

Her scheduled three week run, which opened July 30, has just been extended another week to meet the demand.

"I've got the feel for this one," she told an interviewer. "This mining town would have been home grounds for that gal (Diamond Lil). She would have slept while the miners dug the gold out of the hills. Then at night she would have dug the gold out of the miners."

Central City is just over a few 14,000 foot peaks from Aspen, Colo., site of last month's international celebration honoring Johann Wolfang von Goethe, German philosopher. It attracted world renowned intellectuals and was one of the summertime events that inspired John Chapman, New York Daily News critic, to dub the state "culture crazy Colorado."

Puts Sex In Coffee

Mae offered a comment on that too.

"They say back East you've gone culture crazy," she smiled. "I've been around the stage long enough to know that culture can be pushed off the wings by a couple of swinging hips if you know how to swing them."

She added that she "brought sex out of the back room. I gave it a shove with personality. I can order a cup of coffee on the stage and the censors will be on my neck."

Coloradoans and vacation visitors are chuckling at the same lines that tickled New Yorkers when Mae launched "Diamond Lil."

The buxom stage veteran gets one of her biggest laughs when she purrs "it's not the men in my life but the life in my men that counts."

The audience bubbles over too when a member of the cast appraises bejeweled Mae and remarks "Goodness, such beautiful diamonds."

"Goodness," Mae hums. "had nothing to do with them."

Hoover Reaches 75th Birthday

Tributes Pouring In For Ex-President

Stanford University, Calif., Aug. 10 (AP)—Herbert Clark Hoover is 75 years old today, and tributes for the country's only living ex-president poured in from all over the world.

Late today Stanford University will honor its most illustrious graduate in the Frost amphitheater. A crowd of 12,000 to 14,000 was expected.

The program will be climaxed by a major address by Mr. Hoover, beginning at 5 p. m., PST (8 p. m., EST). His topic will be "think of the next generation."

Even Mr. Hoover, who once said "I have had every honor to which any man could aspire," probably was surprised by the stir created by his birthday anniversary and by the congratulatory letters by the thousands.

Mr. Hoover, born in Iowa and a member of the first graduating class of Leland Stanford University, was the 30th president of the United States—from 1929 to 1933.

At 75, he is, as always, a hard worker, usually putting in a 16-hour day. His chief concern for many years has been for national and international affairs.

Baby Elephant Due To Arrive At Sea

San Francisco, Aug. 10 (AP)—Flora is expecting.

What makes it news is that Flora is an elephant aboard the American President lines freighter President Taft, four days out of Yokohama.

The vessel's skipper, Capt. W. S Tyrrell, retreated into silence after messaging laconically that Flora's monumental labor was not far off.

The Taft is due here next Tuesday with a load of animals for the Los Angeles zoo. There was every indication Flora would be a mama before then.

Boy, 14 Freed Of Evil Spirit

Washington Pastors Help Rout Ghost

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP) — An "evil spirit" which a Washington couple said "possessed" their 14-year-old son appeared today to have been cast out.

This information was relayed to the Society for Parapsychology by a Washington clergyman who said the family had obtained for the boy "the ritual of exorcism" from clergymen of different faiths.

The minister told the society that mysterious noises, creeping furniture and violent rocking of the boy's bed were observed by the family beginning last January.

He said he took the boy to his home where he witnessed these phenomina:

The mattress on the boy's bed "vibrated." He was then placed in a chair. The chair crept back against a wall and "when it couldn't move any further, it started to tip slowly, with a slow motion."

Then the boy was placed on a blanket in the middle of the floor. "The boy and the bedding slowly moved under the beds and there was no evidence of the boy's body moving."

Then last March the boy's father took him for a visit to a midwestern city. This was shortly after he told his parents that "mysterious writing" appeared on his chest saying "no school," his parents said.

During the visit, Roman Catholic priests were asked to see him. They placed a statue of St. Michael in his room. Afterwards he said he had seen "a vision of St. Michael chasing the devil away."

Clergymen of different faiths called in later gave the exorcism rituals, the minister reported, and the strange goings-on stopped.

Police were told Morris Corprew, 38, stumbled against his wife, caused her to drop the glass, and fell on it. He died at Beth Isreal hospital Monday of a severed artery.

Police Lt. William Wagner said yesterday Mrs. Corprew had revised her statement, saying this time that she had smashed a glass against her husband's chest during a quarrel over his late hours.

Quakes Again Jolt Ruins In Ecuador

By BEN MEYER

Quito, Ecuador, Aug. 10 (AP)—New earth tremors and pillaging by unruly Indians spread fear and panic today among the thousands of survivors left homeless by Ecuador's destructive earthquake.

Official government estimates of the death toll in Friday's quake rose to 6,000. But the truth is no one knows for sure how many perished in the great piles of rubble that litter some 50 demolished towns in the populous Andes Mountain region south of here.

Fresh tremors yesterday tumbled weakened walls in Ambato and other cities, adding to the terror of some 150,000 homeless.

Groups of workers attempting to dig their way through the blocked highway to Pelileo, 100 miles south of Quito, were reported buried under a landslide loosed by the new tremors.

Shoot-to-kill orders were issued to troops guarding Pelileo against looting by the wild tribe of Salasaca Indians. Defense Minister Manuel Diaz Granados said one band of Salasacas had been driven off when caught ransacking the ruins.

The Salasacas have been the fiercest warriors in the Andes region for 400 years. Driven out of Bolivia by the Incas centuries ago, they have harassed Ecuadoran settlements even in modern times.

Continuing landslides and sulphurous fumes oozing from jagged crevices have terrorized the countryfolk who escaped the worst effects of the shocks.

This correspondent flew over the area yesterday to Ambato with some of the U. S. Air Force transports helping out in the "little airlift" which is dropping food and medical supplies to isolated towns.

Pelileo, a town of 3,500 population, resembles a garbage dump surrounded by bright green grass and trees. Not a house escaped damage. Block after block is a jumble of adobe walls and bamboo poles.

Clouds of dust still hung over many areas which have had no rain.

The road from the dirt airstrip outside Ambato, a provincial capital of 35,000 population 50 miles south of Quito, was lined with men, women and children sitting dazed and staring into space.

The plazas of the city were jammed with people huddling under bedsheets and spreads.

Reich Police Fire At 1,000 Jews

Munich, Germany, Aug. 10 (AP)—German police today fired into a crowd of 1,000 Jewish displaced persons they said had stoned them and defied orders to disperse.

The crowd, without obtaining a license for a meeting, had gathered to protest an alleged anti-Semitic letter in a Munich newspaper, police said.

Canton Is Goal Of Red Forces

Fierce Battle Rages On Kiangsi Front

By SPENCER MOOSA

Canton, Aug. 10 (AP)—Communists threw fresh forces into a fierce battle on the approaches to this Nationalist capital today.

The big battle raged northwest of Kanhsien in South-Central Kiangsi, perhaps as near as 50 or 60 miles to the Canton's Kwangtung province. Reports said the Reds had put a new division into the fight.

Kiangsi's provincial government transplanted the capital in Hweichang, 50 miles southeast of Kanhsien.

The Nationalists claimed yesterday 11,000 Communist troops had been surrounded near Suichwan, 50 miles northwest of Kanhsien. It was not clear whether the fresh Red division was thrown into this sector or elsewhere on the Kiangsi front where the Communists have penetrated as close as 215 miles northeast of Canton.

Transfer of the capital of Hunan province, which joins Kiangsi on the west, also was disclosed. The government set up shop at Chihkiang, 210 miles southwest of the capital city of Changsha which was handed over the Communists last week by turncoat Gen. Chen Ming-jen.

Capital Starlings Saved By Beetles

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—The lowly starling's appetite for Japanese beetles stood him in good stead here.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) yesterday blocked passage of a bill aimed at liquidating the large flocks of the birds in the District of Columbia.

He told the Senate that the scarcity of beetles is largely due to the abundance of starlings. Senator Anderson (D-NM), former secretary of agriculture, backed up his statement.

Top Military Bosses Report To Congress

Data Helps Decide Size Of U. S. Aid

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—General Omar N. Bradley made clear today that the French army will be the backbone of the North Atlantic defenses.

The Army chief of staff told a joint meeting of the Senate Foreign relations and Armed Services Committees that the bulk of American military aid proposed for Europe will go to the French.

Bradley urged quick approval of President Truman's $1,450,000,000 arms program. But at the same time he wrote off any prospect of an effective military program for China.

"This (the arms program) is an effective way to give aid to Europe," Bradley said, "but there is no immediate effective way to give aid to Asia."

Vandenberg Proposes Split

Bradley, speaking for the three joint chiefs of staff, testified after Secretary of Defense Johnson told the committee he is willing to accept 60 per cent in cash and 40 per cent in contract authority to launch the arms program.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) yesterday proposed a 50-50 split, with the contract authorization to be paid out of next year's budget.

Johnson said it is agreeable to the military department to spread the initial cost of the arms program over two or even three years.

Congress is wrangling over the amount of military aid that should be given to the North Atlantic Pact nations, plus Greece, Turkey, Iran, the Philippines and Korea.

In addition to the Senate hearing, Secretary of State Acheson is scheduled for a closed-door meeting of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Vandenberg proposed that Congress provide cash for only half the $1,160,000,000 program for re-arming Atlantic Pact nations. The other half would be in authority to make contracts for arms, to be appropriated for later.

Taxpayers Pay

In effect, this would mean spreading the cost over a two-year period without any actual cut in the amount of arms for Europe.

Secretary of defense Louis Johnson indicated he could go along with this plan although not enthusiastic about it, provided there is no reduction in the total amount of arms for Europe. He said it would be impossible anyway to deliver all the arms in one year.

Two Democratic leaders said privately the administration probably would accept the Vandenberg proposal. They said it would give President Truman the program he wants even if the costs are spread over two years.

But one of them added the Vandenberg plan was like the old shell game—"Now you see it and now you don't." He said whether the authority is given in cash or contract authority the government—that is, the taxpayers—will have to pay for it sooner or later.

Another Senator cracked that the plan reminded him of a husband who wouldn't give his wife $20 cash for a hat—but agreed

Jacobson Company To Manufacture Tables

The Jacobson Manufacturing company, formerly the Solar Furniture Manufacturing company, will resume operations this week, Ray LaPorte, manager, has announced. Former employes of the firm will be hired first.

Public Grade Schools Crowded; May Need One More Primary Building

Crowded conditions will exist in most public grade schools in Escanaba this coming year because of heavy enrollment, and the housing problem will require some transferring of students and establishment of additional temporary classrooms in basements and auditoriums of some schools.

"If the school population continues to go up we will need a new primary school in the southwest part of the city," Supt. John Lemmer told the Escanaba board of education in meeting last night.

A factor being considered by the board of education in connection with the problem of housing in the public grade schools is the proposed construction of additional parochial schools. "When St. Patrick's builds its school it will practically empty the Washington school," Supt. Lemmer told the board.

Enrollment figures for the five public grade schools for the past three years and the anticipated enrollment for the coming school year are as follows:

1946	1,368
1947	1,441
1948	1,505
1949 (Anticipated)	1,613

Supt. Lemmer reported the anticipated enrollment for the Webster school as 421, the Barr school 359, Franklin 251, Jefferson 289, and Washington 293.

Transfers Unavoidable

"There will be 52 children in the first grade at the Franklin school," the superintendent reported. "It appears necessary to partition off a room at the rear of the Franklin auditorium, moving the fourth grade to that room. This will give us the present fourth grade room as the additional first grade room in that building.

"The Jefferson school will have 45 children in the second grade. The auditorium there is now being used as a classroom. Basement rooms in the building lead to the toilets, so a basement classroom is impossible. Some of the second grade children will have to be transferred to Franklin school where the second grade enrollment is only 23.

"The children and parents do not like transfers from one building to another, but in some cases a transfer is unavoidable," Supt. Lemmer reported. "This will mean that a child will have to walk several additional blocks, but in no case will the distance be objectionable. Children transferred will come from the area closest to the Franklin school."

"The third grade in the Jefferson school numbers 41," the report continued. "The two third grades in the Barr school averages 26, so some transfers from the Jefferson to the Barr will be necessary. Many families live in an area which belongs either to the Barr or to the Jefferson schools, so transfers can be made with less difficulty than to the Franklin. However, even in these cases, parents often object.

"One additional room will be needed at the Barr school. The only space available is a basement room. The State Department of Public Instruction has approved the use of such rooms as a temporary measure, and I am waiting for the fire marshall to give his approval."

In a verbal report, Supt. Lemmer indicated the approval may not be forthcoming as anticipated, a further complication of the problem in housing the grade school children.

"The only vacant classroom in the system is in the Webster school," Supt. Lemmer's report continued. "However this is used for music and for library purposes. Such use is so important in the Webster program that we should not disturb it.

"Transferring children from down town to the Webster school would mean providing transportation or furnishing lunch room facilities there. The first of these is impossible because our bus has a full schedule now. The second would mean the providing of lunch room facilities which we do not have at the Webster."

Supt. Wells Will Attend Institute

Wells, superintendent of schools at Hermansville, will attend the Institute for Instruction and Training in Driver Education, which is to be held at the Michigan Union building, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, from August 22 to 26. He is back in the county jail, after a mental examination by three psychiatrists at the state hospital a Newberry yesterday. He was returned here last night by Sheriff King and his turnkey, Attilio Tirapelli. The examination required and hour and a half.

The psychiatrists will report their findings to Glenn W. Jackson of the circuit court, and Prosecutor F. Lloyd Symmonds. The report may not be available until the opening of the next term of circuit court, Aug. 22.

McGregor has persistently said that he shot and killed Nordbeck, who had given him a ride from Stiles Junction, Wis., to a point seven miles west of Crystal Falls on US-2, on the Oss road, but he doesn't know why. He reiterated his statement that Nordbeck "was the finest man I had ever met, and nothing like that should have happened to a man like that."

Pollen Count Up—Reports of ragweed pollen in the Upper Peninsula show an increase, according to state health department figures. On August 7 Newberry had 7 grains of pollen per cubic yard of air, Ironwood 37; on Aug. 6 the count showed Menominee with 15 grains of pollen, Crystal Falls 7. On Aug. 4 St. Ignace had a count of 15. No report was made for Escanaba because the glass slide on which the pollen had been collected was broken when it was received at state branch laboratory, Powers.

Smith, Jenson And Stille Listed In 1897 Directory

Peter Jensen of 209 Ludington street, Sam Stille of 115 North 10th street and M. N. Smith of 800 Lake Shore drive were unusually surprised last week when they looked through an 1897 edition of a Michigan Telephone directory and found that of 202 phones listed in Escanaba, theirs are among the only ones still listed.

The old directory covers the entire state of Michigan, listing alphabetically phones in cities from Adrian to Ypsilanti. More than 450 Michigan cities are represented in the telephone book, recovered from the attic of the Escanaba Daily Press building, once the telephone exchange in Escanaba.

As the three Escanabans recall, a man named Bill McCue was in charge of the service office here. At the time, you could get a free telephone in your home if you had one put in your place of business.

Some interesting names were found in the book, and these led to varied discussions of old days in Escanaba. M. N. Smith was listed as the proprietor of "Gent' Furnishings," a men's clothing store he operated from 1897 to 1900, at 814 Ludington street. His phone number was 117. Previously Smith worked for the Bank of Escanaba as clerk, a position he accepted in 1894 when he came to Escanaba from Watertown, Wis., his birthplace. After closing his store, Smith returned to the Bank of Escanaba, converted to a national bank in 1907, as cashier.

Tilden Avenue

Sam Stille operated a plumbing shop on Ludington street and his phone number was 163. Stille, who was 79 August 6, came to Escanaba in 1890 and for 63 years was active in the plumbing business. He came here from Oshkosh, Wis

Peter Jensen of 209 Ludington street was listed with Hans Hansen as the operator of a fish market on South Tilden avenue, and he could be reached by calling 34. Tilden avenue, as many early Escanabans will recall, was the main street of the city in those days, and on it were the Tilden House and Oliver House.

Jensen came to this area in 1881, from Schlesvig, Denmark, and had his first Thanksgiving dinner in America at the old Stonington lighthouse. He was 17 years old then, and first went into partnership with Chris Christensen of 907 Lake Shore drive, in the fishing business in 1883. They bought small boats and nets and fished in the waters of Little Bay de Noc. Eleven years after he settled in Stonington, Jensen moved to Escanaba, to his present home, 209 Ludington.

With Hans Hansen he continued in the fish business with headquarters in Escanaba. He owned the first gasoline boat operated in this area and in 1912 was the first to wholesale oil in the community.

Cars hadn't come on the scene then, and it was used for boats exclusively. Jensen still retains the oil distributorship and supplies 11 stations in Delta county.

Interest in Government

Jensen says that when he first moved to Stonington, Chris Christensen was the only fellow he knew, and because he did not know very many people, he bought land immediately. He bought three forties of land with Christensen, later sold out to Christensen, and bought two forties a mile and a half north of Peninsula point lighthouse. Later he sold this to Skaug brothers of Stonington.

In the early days, Jensen recalls, there was not much money in excess of needs in Escanaba, and consequently every business man felt it was his duty to actively participate in government, to see that taxes were kept down, and to see that money was used properly. Jensen served four years on the Escanaba city council, and during his terms he saw the library and the city hall built, and Ludington street improved.

As he recalls, Ludington street was constructed from wood blocks, and was so full of holes "it was impossible to ride a bicycle down the street." "Seventeen teams of horses were used to haul sand to finish the lower end of the street, the big business district then," Jensen recalls.

Good Government?

Peter Jensen, who landed in Escanaba at the spot where he operated a fish market for nearly 50 years in partnership with Hansen, also served in the state legislature, in 1909, 1911, 1913, 1919, and 1921, as a member of the House of Representatives. One of the first things he did when elected to the legislature, he proudly recalls, was to have the Escanaba water system put under supervision of the state board of health, and thus indirectly brought about building of the filter plant.

Because Mr. Jensen was active in government, in the days when this 1897 directory was used with those telephones with cranks, we asked him if he thought government today was more efficient than in those days.

"I should say not," he vehemently replied.

When asked why he thought not, the Delta county pioneer paused, and then put it this way:

"It can't be when we have to have wars to make prosperity. If we would spend a tenth of what it costs to fight a war, on the poor peoples of the world, then we would have something. You can put the blame wherever you want," he added.

Some of the Names

According to the telephone directory, there were six attorneys in Escanaba to whom you could take your troubles. They are John Carey, Jonothan Commiskey, John Donovan, C. W. McEwen, F. D. Mead and John Power. Liveries were operated by Joseph Beauchamp, George Kaufman, Thomas Richer, and John Wilson. Harness shops were maintained by the Sheedlo brothers, and George Kaufman. Kaufman and the Kurz brothers also had sales stables, where for a fair price, you could pick up a horse.

Cleary brothers operated the wholesale liquor house; a Miss Conroy ran a confectionery at 712 Ludington street; George Cook sold house furnishings; Walter Lord ran a saw mill; Bert Ellsworth and Sourwine and Hartnett had the only drug stores with telephones then; J. T. Wixson took pictures; Joe Wickert had a cigar factory; P. M. Peterson a music house; and Dr. S. A. Winn was the only dentist listed then.

The Escanaba Daily Mirror, with offices on Dousman avenue, was the city's newspaper. Printing was handled by a firm called Iron Port, which had offices at the corner of Elmore and Wells. Arthur R. Jones and company had a brokerage office on Harrison avenue; Richard Hoyler, John O'Meara and George Young had the bakeries here, H. M. Stevenson had a jewelry store; William Smith a milk depot at 300 Ludington street.

There were also a large number of meat markets and grocery stores, operated by the Bittner brothers, G. Q. Hessel, Charles Ehnerd, Gunter and sons; Erickson and Bissell, Nelson and Anderson, August Olinger, John Power, Schwalbach and Hirn, Henry Wilkie and Melvin Young.

Saloons, it says in the directory, were operated in Escanaba by George Bergman, Burnerd Denter, F. Forest, John Gannon, Gibson and company, Fred Hodges, Peter Lemmer, James Lyons, Mallison and Magnison, Richard Perron, Richard Roth, George Rowe, Peter Semer and E. F. Wickert.

Industries listed included the United States Woodenware company, Stevenson Lumber company, Pittsburgh & Lake Superior Iron company and the Escanaba Iron Works. Banks included the First National and the Bank of Escanaba.

Garfield House, the Ludington Hotel and the Oliver House, were among the hotels listed. And the court house was here, with 11 as its telephone number.

Guindon Rites On Saturday

Schaffer Soldier Was World War Casualty

The body of Sgt. Louis J. Guindon, who was killed in action in Germany April 3, 1945 will arrive here Friday morning at 4:15 and will be taken to the Allo funeral home where it will be in state Friday at 4 p. m.

Services will be held at 9:30 a. m. Saturday at Sacred Heart church, Schaffer, with Rev. Wilfred Pelletier officiating and burial will be in Schaffer cemetery. Military rites will be conducted by members of the veterans' organizations.

Sgt. Guindon, who was one of four brothers in the service, was 24 years old at the time of his death. He was born at Schaffer September 22, 1920, and attended the public schools there. Before entering military service he was employed at the Sherman hotel in Escanaba and later at McHugh's Truck Service station in Chicago.

He enlisted in the army December 10, 1942, and received his basic training at Camp Wolters, Texas. Later he trained at Camp Carlson, Colo., Hunter Liggets, California, and Fort Benning, Ga. He served as an instructor at Fort Benning for seven months before going overseas.

He is survived by his widow, the former Glendola Hansen, who has since remarried, and the following brothers and sisters: Ernest, Edward and Henry of Escanaba; Phillip of Los Angeles; Gilbert of Milwaukee; Lenas of Chicago; Mrs. Ned Lantagne of Schaffer and Miss Blanche Guindon of Schaffer. His father died June 25 an hour before the telegram advising him that his son's body was being returned for reburial, reached the family.

Four French Scouts Come Here By Canoe

Four young Frenchmen who are re-tracing routes taken in 1673 by Father Marquette and Joliet, in conjunction with a good will tour for the youth of France, arrived in Escanaba last night, shortly after 5 p. m., in two canoes from Manistique.

The four men, two of whom are journalists, are traveling from Ferryville, Canada, to New Orleans. They are paddling canoes all the way, using two 16 foot freighters which were given to them by a canoemaker in Quebec.

They cook their own meals with camp equipment and sleep in a 17 foot tent. The young Frenchmen start their days about 6 a. m., and paddle until noon. They then have dinner and rest until 5 p. m., then paddle two more hours.

To date waves 10 feet high in the North Channel in Canada, and shoals at Manistique which nearly capsized them, have been the worst hardships for them. In Canada, high winds forced them to land a few times.

Nine hundred miles of a 4500 mile journey by canoe has shown them, they say, much beautiful scenery, especially along the French River in Canada. They have not seen enough of the United States to say what they think outstanding.

The Marquette team, as the group of four is called, plans to cover the 4500 miles in six months, traveling along the St. Laurent, the Mattawa, Lake Nipissing, down the French River to Georgian Bay and Lake Huron, and along the Wisconsin and Missassippi to New Orleans. They expect to arrive in New Orleans in November. Later they will head back this way to visit various cities.

Jean Rasphail, who conceived the idea of the trip after studying extensively about Father Marquette and Jolliet two years ago, keeps a daily log of the trip. This he writes while they are camped for the night. Rasphail lives in Paris, near the Eiffel tower, and is the team leader.

Philippe Andrieu, who lives in Chantilly, served with the French underground for two years and holds a U. S. presidential citation. He fought with the LeClerc division. Andrieu is a journalist, writing scenarios for French movies. Jacques Boucharlat, of Etampes, an insurance broker, is interpreter for the team and also its photographer. Yves Korbendau, the other member, is a painter and sketcher and a student of architecture in the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris.

When Rasphail was certain that this trip could be made, he advertised in French papers for his teammates. His three companions were selected from a group of 50. The greatest difficulty after selecting his teammates was encountered in raising revenue for the trip.

"In France our dollars have to go chiefly for machines and other necessities, and it is difficult to get permission for tourist travel outside the country," Rasphail explained. Plans for the trip were made a year ago. Originally they had planned to cover all the Great Lakes by canoe, but deferred when a Canadian French priest visiting in Paris explained to them that such a trip would take years.

Historically the group aims to honor the memory of Marquette, Jolliet, Cavelier de la Salle, and LeMoyne d'Iberville, the French pioneers in America. During their journey the French team, composed of French Rover Scouts, will give commemorative plaques to Quebec, Detroit, Marquette and Chicago. In each of these cities there is a statue of Father Marquette, in whose homage the trip is particularly made. Laon, France is giving the plates.

A French city, Point a Mousson, where Father Marquette lived for several years, is participating in the expedition. Pamphlets sending their greetings are being distributed by the team members.

Lunch at Gladstone

The team will strive to make closer friendship with the youth of France, Canada and the United States by contacting youth organizations. The Boy Scouts of France are sending official greetings to Scouts in the United States and Canada.

On their return to France in February or March, the four men will convey information about the American continent to the French people through books, photographic albums, documentary films and newspaper articles. Jean Rasphail will write a book about the trip for the French, and this book will also be translated into English for an American publisher. Three documentary films in black and white and three in color will be made by the Frenchmen, while traveling in the steps of the French pioneers.

One of the questions most frequently asked the Frenchmen while they are traveling is: "Did you come over the Atlantic in those canoes." Jean hastens to explain that the French team came across on a cargo boat, and landed in Norfolk, Va.

Father Clifford Nadeau, pastor of St. Ann church, is escorting the team to various points of interest in the Escanaba area. A Boy Scout executive from Marquette is aiding the Marquette team while they tour in Upper Michigan. This noon they lunched in Gladstone with the Erick Gabrielsons Mrs. Gabrielson came here from France three years ago.

The team will leave Escanaba Thursday morning for Menominee and Green Bay, enroute to New Orleans.

ARTHRITIS
IN HANDS AND KNEE
MADE LIFE MISERABLE

There is nothing like O-JIB-WA BITTERS says Mrs. Charles Brown, 1808 Crooks Road, Royal Oak, Michigan. I used to suffer with rheumatism and arthritis in my hands, shoulders and knee, and indigestion and gas used to make my heart pound, before I used this wonderful medicine.

If you suffer from the pains and miseries of rheumatism and arthritis, and like thousands of others, have found it extremely difficult to overcome, O-JIB-WA BITTERS is worth your trial. Read the unpaid for statement of Mrs. Brown and be convinced that you should try O-JIB-WA INDIAN BITTERS.

Mrs. C. Brown

Could Hardly Get Around

"I have been bothered with arthritis and rheumatism for some time. I had it in my hands, knuckles and right knee. Sometimes, it seemed to move around and I would have pains in my shoulders and side. I was always tired and doggy, yet, when I went to bed, I couldn't sleep because of the continual pain. In the morning my hands were swollen and stiff and I would have to work and massage them to loosen them up. When I would sit down, it was really hard to get up from my chair, and then it was all I could do to get from one place to another. Climbing stairs was slow and difficult, and left me short of breath. The cold damp weather stiffened me up worse than ever, and I was told that the best thing for me to do was to move to a warmer climate. I couldn't do this, so I tried many different medicines, hoping to find relief. I also suffered with indigestion and gas pains and would bloat so bad, my heart would just pound It seemed I could hardly breath. I felt so bad, that I don't know which was worst; the stomach trouble or the arthritis."

Aches and Pains Completely Gone

"Thanks to O-JIB-WA BITTERS, I am 100% better, and enjoying perfect health. My aches and pains are all a thing of the past. The weather no longer bothers me, and house work is easier. My hands no longer swell in the morning, and I can get around with ease. I now have plenty of pep, and can eat anything without fear of gas and heartburn. In spite of my 60 years, I feel much better, and everybody tells me I look better than I have in years. O-JIB-WA BITTERS is the most wonderful medicine I have ever taken. I have recommended it to many people, in fact my husband is taking it at the present time. I honestly don't think there is anything like it."

Strike at the Cause

O-JIB-WA BITTERS is an all-herb medicine which acts to correct the cause of Rheumatism, Arthritis and Neuritis. O-JIB-WA acts to clear the blood of Poisons and waste that foster these conditions, tones up weak, sluggish organs, promotes better digestion and strengthens the kidneys. Hoover Observers 75th Birthday

HERBERT HOOVER is 75 years old today. Thirteen years have passed since Mr. Hoover left the White House as a one term president of the United States in the midst of the worst depression in the nation's history. His critics called it a "Hoover depression" and blamed him for the ills of the world, although economists and fair-minded persnos universally agree that Herbert Hoover, as president of the United States, was in no way responsible for the morass in which the world was then struggling.

In the years that have passed since then, Herbert Hoover has continued to take an extremely active interest in governmental affairs. On several occasions he has been called upon for specific tasks particularly well fitted for his talents. He organized the foreign food relief committee at the end of the war and only recently completed the huge task of studying reorganization plans for more efficiency in governmental service.

Mr. Hoover is the only living ex-president of the United States. He has earned and gained the reputation as the nation's leading elder statesman. Upon the occasion of his 75th anniversary, the world to which he has contributed so much, both as a private citizen and as the chief executive of the United States, will pay him homage.

We are happy indeed to add our well wishes and congratulations to the millions of others who are on this day saying to Herbert Hoover, "Happy Birthday."

Escanaba River Will Be Improved

GOOD news for fishermen came with the announcement that the state conservation department is contemplating a unique improvement program on the Escanaba river.

Holes will be blasted in the limestone bed of the river to provide reservoirs for trout during low water stages. In the past, trout and other fish have perished during severe dry spells, all of which has caused some chagrin among ardent anglers.

In addition, the state conservation department is establishing a public fishing site on the Escanaba river near Cornell, similar to that previously established near Garden Junction. With most of the water frontage property in private hands, the public now has few points of legal access to fishing waters. The public fishing sites are an attempt to remedy this deficiency. It is a program that should be extended before it is too late.

Fire Fighters Risk Their Lives

ONE of the new and much - publicized methods of forest fire fighting suffered a severe setback when 12 parachutists met their deaths after being dropped from airplanes in the Helena, Mont., area.

The Forest Service, which has pioneered in the use of parachutists in forest fire suppression, had previously made several tests without casualties. Just why ill-fortune was experienced in the recent forest fire was not explained in the press dispatches.

Perhaps, conditions encountered in the Helena area fires were much more hazardous than they were in previous instances. The jumps were made in a mountainous region where one of the worst fires in years was raging.

There is another clue to what might have been the cause of heavy toll of parachutists' lives. One veteran rescue worker described the jumpers as "all young kids — college students — who were jumping for the sport of it."

Parachute jumping is a hazardous business at all times. It is not a job for kids looking for a thrill, particularly under the dangerous conditions that existed during the forest fires in Montana.

Sneezers Are Rushing To Pollen-Free Areas

THE annual invasion of hay fever sufferers is reported under way at Traverse City, Sault Ste. Marie and other northern communities that cater to this type of tourist trade.

The air is filled with noxious pollen in Indiana, Illinois and other prairie states, and hay fever victims seek relief during August and September in northern climes comparatively free of ragweed and other troublesome weeds.

Science has attacked the hay fever ailment with considerable success in recent years. Relief is offered by thephorin and other drugs. Inoculations with pollen that cause the allergies have been helpful.

But for many sufferers the relief is not complete. The best remedy for them is to go north to some area where they can live in comfort until the hay fever season is passed.

For years, Sault Ste. Marie has had its Ca-Choo club, an organization of fellow sufferers, who get together for social activities and to talk about their hay fever. It is a hospitality program that helps to extend the Lock City's tourist season beyond the traditional Labor Day closing.

THEY CAN ONLY HOPE

(Iron Mountain News)

Barring some unforeseen development, the Ford Motor company's sawmill at L'Anse, in Baraga county, will not be operated after the existing inventory is depleted. And it is expected the inventory will be depleted by next spring.

In other words, unless there is a complete change in the Ford Motor company's picture, as to the use of wood products, the approximately 175 men now at work in the L'Anse mill will not be working there a year from today, and that community will lose its principal industry.

There is always the possibility that something may happen to prevent it—the development of some new process by the Ford Motor company, requiring the use of more wood. Frankly, as the story has been told to us, it is not immediately in the picture, and the residents of L'Anse know it as well as anyone else. They have at least been forewarned.

There is a fine point of ethics here, and we think the Ford Motor company chose the better way. There was, for the officers of the company, the alternative of "babying" the L'Anse mill along until shortly before the expected shutdown, then suddenly turning the key and walking away. The company has chosen not to do that. It has given notice, months in advance, of the expected closing so that if some other use can be found for the mill, by some other party or parties, there may be ample time to negotiate.

It is certain that residents of L'Anse and Baraga county will be keenly disappointed. Coming shortly after the close of the Calumet and Hecla mines in the Calumet area, it is another severe blow for the copper region. It is a critical setback, too, for those owning business establishments and homes in the area. And finally, in the same manner as the Calumet and Hecla closing affected relatively the economy of all of the Upper Peninsula, so will the closing of the sawmill at L'Anse.

Ford Motor company officials insist, today, that if there is any possible way out of this move, they will take it. But they, with residents of L'Anse and the surrounding area, can only hope.

It is understood that the move will not affect the Ford operation in Kingsford. Recently the Ford company closed its mill at Big Bay, and we hear that some of the machinery there has already been purchased by a lumber jobber, and is in the process of removal. Now the L'Anse mill is in line for closing, and when that happens, Iron Mountain will be the company's last principal lumber-mill operation in the Upper Peninsula. Likewise, it is today the largest single industrial operation in Dickinson county, and one of the largest in the Peninsula.

All of which puts new emphasis on the importance of diversification of industry in the Upper Peninsula. We need more small mills, shops and factories to offset the one-industry hazards—a hazard which exists, similarly, in many other principal communities of the Peninsula. Mining and lumbering, of and by themselves, do not comprise a sound economic operation for any community. There must be others to take up the slack if and when these prime operations are suddenly curtailed or halted.

It should be the theme song of every civic organization in the Upper Peninsula, so that it may never become the swan song.

USAGE OFTEN DIFFERS FROM THE DICTIONARIES

Flour-flower. Flour and flower are doublets. Both evolved from the French fleur, "flower," which entered Middle English as flour, "the blossom of a plant; the finest or choicest product or example."

"He was of hight hode and of fredom flour."—Chaucer.

Of alle the floures in the mede,
Then love I most these floures white and rede,
Swiche as men callen daysies in our toun.—Chaucer.

At first the fine ground and bolted meal of grain was called flour of whete, i. e., the finest part of the meal, a literal translation of the French fleur de farine.

Later, flour became two wards, flour and flower in the modern meanings.

The dictionaries list flour as a one-syllable word, and flower as a two-syllable word. But, as is the case with hour and our, the two-syllable pronunciation for flour is very widespread in the country as a whole, and it strongly prevails in the South, Southwest, and East.

Flower is: FLOU-er.

Flour is either: flour or: FLOU-er.

• • •

Filet-fillet. The French word filet has a number of meanings, among them is, "a piece of lean meat without bone; a flat slice of fish without bone.' The French pronunciation is fee-LEH.

Now filet entered English in two forms: filet and fillet. Ordinarily fillet is pronounced FILL-it. But when fillet is used in designating meat or fish, the customary pronunciation is: fill-AY; or: FILL-ay. And filet also is pronounced: fill-AY; or: FILL-ay.

Filet mignon in French is: fee-LEH meen-YAW(N). The Standard American pronunciation is: FILL-ay meen-YON.

Bomber Policy To Be Probed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Childs

Washington.—Various and sundry investigations are beginning to take the headlines from the waning session of congress. One result is to divert attention from the lapses and failures, the stalemate and the plain and simple balkiness of what can hardly be considered a distinguished performance.

One of the investigations is concerned with the conduct of several picturesque figures in and around the White House. They are alleged to have used their influence to get profitable contracts for friends.

This makes for diverting reading, since it is always exciting to start a fox — and especially a highly colored fox that talks back—with the chase in full view. If these characters are guilty, they should be punished.

B-36 BOMBER PROBE

But there is another investigation that can produce something more than a brief sensation. That is the investigation ordered by the house into the B-36 bomber and the policy of the air force in concentrating so much of the air budget on this long-range bomber.

Here, too, sensational charges involving contracts and alleged collusion are involved. There is, however, another phase of the inquiry that is infinitely more important even if all the sensational rumors should be proved true. Or it could be more important if the investigating committee has the courage and the objectivity to go into it.

That is to try to appraise the role of strategic bombing—the obliteration of the enemy's cities. This is down on the committee's schedule. Chairman Carl Vinson of the house armed services committee says the investigation will definitely cover the point.

But high-ranking navy officers have heard the disquieting report that the issue of strategic bombing and its potentialities will be glossed over. They are fearful that some kind of deal has been made so that the public will not get anything like a true picture, correcting what navy men believe is a deliberate and relentless propaganda campaign in behalf of a blitz, 30-day victory in a painless war.

This becomes all the more important since Gen. Omar N. Bradley has confirmed what has been widely known—that America's role at the outset of a war would be to drop the atomic bomb on the enemy's cities. Air force planners have talked about 70 strategic targets to be obliterated in Soviet Russia, thereby paralyzing the enemy at the outset of a war.

WOULD IT WIN WAR?

Such an attack would destroy several million civilians. Whether it would win a war is an open question. Whether it would win the peace is still another question which almost no one seems to consider.

A navy airman, Admiral Daniel V. Gallery, had the courage to raise some of these points the other day. It took courage, in view of the stern orders to keep away from the controversy, to speak as frankly as he did in the Saturday Evening Post. Gallery wrote:

"Wholesale destruction of the populated areas of an enemy country is a poor way to promote lasting peace. It merely sows the seeds of hate for another war. All over Europe we are discovering to our sorrow now the penalties which the victor pays in the post-war peace for indiscriminate destruction. A large part of the billions now being spent in the European recovery program can be charged to this account."

Gallery quoted passages from the summark report of the United States strategic bombing survey to show that even though German cities were plastered with bombs and hundreds of thousands of civilians killed, military production went right on. In some instances it even increased, after the heaviest raids.

According to the bombing survey, more than 2,500,000 tons of bombs were dropped on Germany. Yet an invasion by ground forces finally conquered Hitler's armies. And Germany, as compared to Russia, is a small, compact country.

Before these matters are once and for all concluded, it would be a good idea if the American people got some understanding of what is at stake. Back of all the big talk are some fearsome possibilities. If the investigation could get the facts in perspective, presenting a picture that most of us who are not experts can comprehend, the committee would perform a great national service.

The military pieces are rapidly falling into place. This may be the last chance to get a clear look at the underpinnings on which our security appears to be based.

As far as youngsters are concerned, the first batch of homegrown spinach will be a surplus crop.

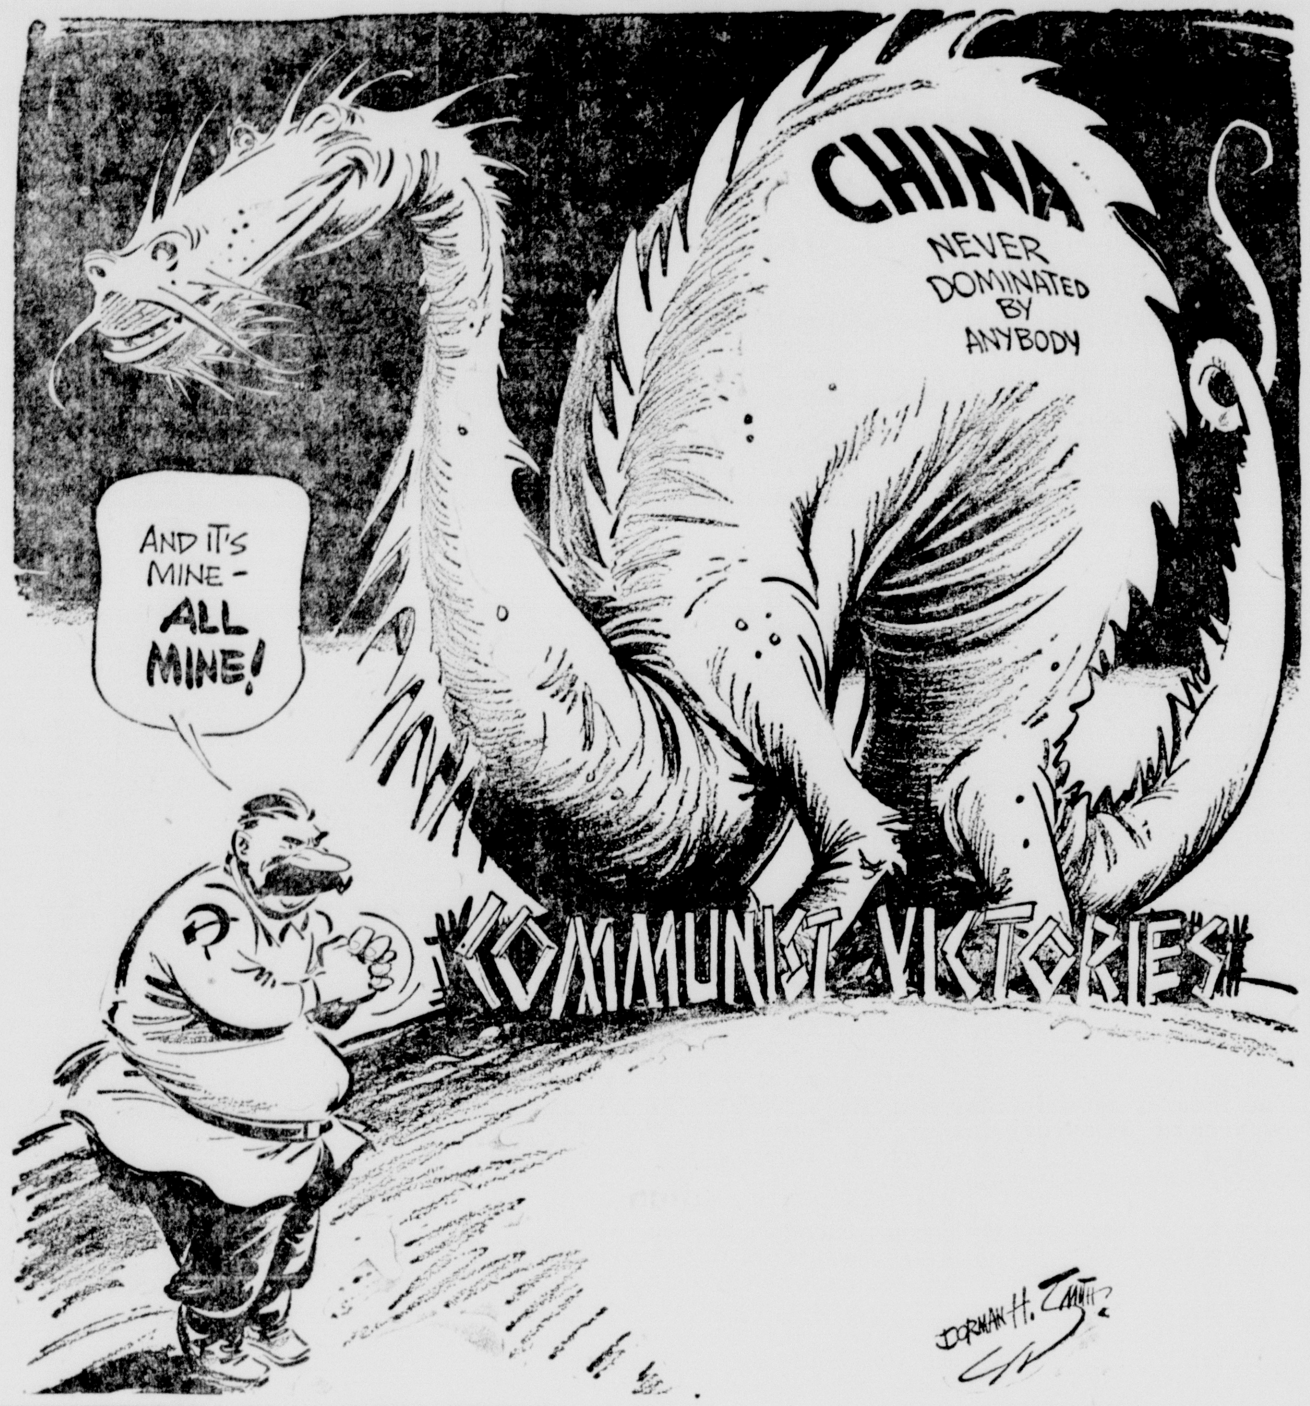
The Optimist



Good Evening

By Clint Dunathan

COOKING—Someone—I have forgotten who—remarked that he has always wanted his wife to cook for him some of the more unusual Northern Michigan animals. He felt a longing for a roast muskrat, he said, or perhaps a roast of beaver. Some other member of the group expressed abhorrence at the very thought, but I can distinctly recall a woodsman who extolled the culinary virtues of porcupine.

This is an introduction to a book on tropical cooking (particularly appropriate these recent hot days) received at the Daily Press office from a former staff member, now in Panama Canal Zone. The sender is Mrs. Joseph Boyer, the former Marion Strahl.

"Liven up your woman's page with some tasty recipes for baked skunk or boiled goat," she advises Amy Moberg, woman's page editor, and adds warningly: "The sender assumes no responsibility for any casualties."

* * *

THE UNUSUAL—Under the heading of game animals the cook book advises that roast ant eater (armandillo) "is edible if you don't expect too much." More hopefully the author of the cook book, a Mrs. Gladys R. Graham who claims to have successfully tried the recipes on her family without losing even one relative, reports that roast caoti is delicious if served with baked bananas, sweet potatoes or plantain.

Monkey meat is stringy with a tendency to be tough and a bit coarse, Mrs. Graham reports and passes along the observation that "some doctors in this hemisphere have claimed that monkey meat is extremely helpful in cases of asthma."

Admitting that she really doesn't know whether that is true or not, she is certain that either the red or spider monkey is the best eating, with the "black howler running a poor third."

* * *

THAT PORCUPINE—My friend who ate porcupine can now find a recipe, called a porcupine pot and including not only porcupine but such diverse oddments as potatoes, celery, onion, carrots, tomatoes, parsely, thyme and basil. Mrs. Graham presents the recipe with few comments, except to advise that the quills should be removed.

The Central American kitchen expert is even more cautious in recommending a fricassee of skunk. But she does and says that to keep the meat from smelling like a skunk it is necessary to "skin it as rapidly as possible, and then soak the carcass in salt water."

* * *

LESS STRANGE— Before turning to chicken, pigs, goats and the domesticated creatures, Mrs. Graham mentions roast tapir and reports that "a good old 600-pound tapir takes a lot of patience and fuel." That much of any old thing would take a long time to prepare for a noon lunch.

Going through the more common domesticated creatures, the authoress of the cook book passes quickly on to wildfowl—including grossbeaks and parakeets. She mentions that the egret is protected by law. So also is the quetzal, she says, but adds defiantly: "They are good baked in orange juice or cream."

* * *

A LITTLE POISON—Cooking products of jungle woods and waters is a trifle risky, the cook book would lead you to believe. Quite a few of the fish are poisonous, some if they are eaten and others if they are touched. And if you are interested in obtaining cashew nuts you will find there is considerable hazard attendant thereto. For the shells contain a volatile oil that is a highly poisonous irritant. These shells are roasted off and even the smoke from the shells is poisonous. Mrs. Graham wisely concludes that it is best to purchase them in the shops.

* * *

AND SOME REPTILES—Braised alligator is recommended by the cook from Panama and she goes into a mild rapture over lizard pie. She points out, incidentally, that North Americans who enjoy frog legs should not shudder at igauana (lizard), whose meat so closely resembles chicken that it is served in the restaurants under that name.

Turtle comes in for more than a mention, and Mrs. Graham points out that it is nutritious and delicious. "You don't need to remind your family that he is really a reptile," she admonishes.

Although Mrs. Graham indicates that she has dabbled with native food and drink, you get the feeling that she is happier close to her corner grocery store. She tells you something of caco and how chocolate is made in the tropics and then suggests that you will probably "prefer Bakers' or some other brand."

After wandering through pages of fried reptile, roast skunk and stewed jaguar it was a relief to turn back to the section on bananas and a recipe for that old standby— banana cream pie.

U. P. State Fair Week

Dear Editor:

Next week is Fair Week in Escanaba and I think that it would be a grand idea if every Escanaba home would invite out of town friends and relatives to visit us during the Fair Week.

We are fortunte in having such a grand fair and we should be proud of it. The fair provides us with an excellent opportunity to entertain our friends and relatives from other cities, particularly other states. It also helps us to show them the kind of an area in which we live, our agriculture and our industries.

Military Unification

Dear Editor:

Unification of the armed services is at last an actuality which we hope will strengthen the nation's defense and at the same time save some money for the taxpayer.

Under the Unification Act the secretary of defense becomes the factual head of the Army, Navy, and Air Force, which makes up the defense department. He has full authority and Congress has given him the necessary power to direct the department.

The act also, for the first time in the country's history, creates the position of chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. There are chiefs of staff for the three services and the chairman will preside over the joint chiefs and will aid and advise the secretary and the president in the conduct of the department and military matters.

The Unification Act also calls for the appointment of three assistant secretaries of defense. Of course, we still have the secretaries of Army, Navy and Air Force, but these positions no longer have cabinet rank.

While the Unification Act, as it exists today, may not be perfect, it seemingly is a step in the right direction. If the secretary and his subordinate function on an efficient basis the unification operation should accomplish the main objective—elimination of inter-service bickering and jealousies and the creation of a modern and streamlined over-all defense force at less cost to the taxpayers.

While the act permits the unification of the armed services it does not give the secretary the power to transfer one branch of the service to another nor to abolish the Marine Corps or merge the Marine Corps into any other branch of the service. This act does not merge the Army, Navy and the Air Force—they do not lose their identities—but their operations are unified for the good of all.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Pearson

Washington.—A theatrical company of American Negroes will tour the Scandinavian countries next month to offset Paul Robeson's Communist - sponsored barnstorming.

The Negro players will present Henrik Ibsen's "The Wild Duck" in Denmark, Sweden and Norway, and thus demonstrate that all American Negroes aren't downtrodden, but can attain the same educational and cultural heights as other Americans.

This good-will tour was arranged by the Norwegian embassy and Howard university of Washington, D. C., without any prompting from the state department. Twenty-one students and three instructors from Howard university's drama department will make the trip, most of the expenses being paid by Blevins Davis, American philanthropist, who also brought an American company to Denmark to play "Hamlet."

The idea of sending Negro players to Scandinavia was suggested by Ivan Jacobsen, staff member of the Norwegian embassy, after he happened to see the Howard university drama department in action. He felt that Paul Robeson had not painted a true picture of the American Negroes, and so on his own initiative promoted the tour as a gesture of people-to-people friendship.

Prediction: This will do almost as much good as some phases of the North Atlantic pact.

SEEN AND HEARD

Senator Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, newly appointed attorney general, finished lunch and called for his check. The waiter brought it. This was the first day the new District of Columbia sales tax went into effect.

"The tax should be three cents, not two," the senator advised the waiter. "You've undercharged me."

Since Senator McGrath wrote the sales tax law for the District of Columbia, the waiter didn't argue. The man who, as attorney general, will be responsible for enforcing the law, handed him the extra penny.

WHISPERED IN THE SENATE

The senate buzzed with news of the appointment of Attorney General Clark to the supreme court and of Senator McGrath to be attorney general — especially Senators James Kem of Missouri, Clark's bitter critic, and Homer Ferguson of Michigan who has been under investigation.

Leaning forward, Senator Bob Taft whispered in Kem's ear: "We're going to make you and Homer the reception committee for the new supreme court justice."

THE AMAZING MARAGON

Sam Boykin, head of the state department's gumshoe department and cousin of Alabama's Congressman "Everything's For Love" Boykin, is very secretive about it, but he is hushing up another strange chapter in the strange life of John Maragon.

Though the state department won't talk, Maragon was mixed up in a deal to buy all the surplus U. S. army vehicles in Germany—about 7,000 trucks, trailers and jeeps. The price was $1,250,000 and the sale was consummated Jan. 31, 1948, to a Belgian scrap dealer.

Maragon was representing a Britisher, George Dawson, who has a criminal record, and for whom he had also done some work in Washington with the War Assets administration. Maragon's close contact in war assets has been Joe Major, a member of Truman's Battery D, and an intimate of General Vaughan's. Major recently flew with the president to Little Rock for their battery's reunion. He also states that he has received about 500 phone calls from Vaughan, visits at his home about once a week, and got to know Maragon through Vaughan.

Arriving in Paris in the winter of 1948, the amaing Maragon presented letters of introduction to Gen. Clyde Hyssong, in charge of war surplus for the state department, and then proceeded to charge the general with giving unwarranted information to Jack Van Allen, a rival of Maragon's who also represented Dawson.

In the end, the state department had to send a special investigator across the Atlantic to straighten out the row.

In the end, also, Dawson and Maragon did not get the 7,000 surplus vehicles, though they did get about 700 army motorcycles after a heated row over the price.

BACKSTAGE WITH THE GOP

The backstage story of what happened inside the Republican national committee shows how bitterly the Taft-Dewey forces are still divided.

The man chiefly responsible for Guy Gabrielson's hairbreadth election as chairman was Taft's close friend, hefty Republican Clarence Brown of Ohio.

It was Brown, working closely with Sen. Hugh Butler of Nebraska, who inducted Abel Shotwell of Nebraska to switch to Gabrielson, thus clinching a majority of the committee's 102 votes for the New Jersey man.

In doing so, Brown definitely ruled himself out as a compromise candidate for the chairmanship.

At one point Taft forces were flabbergasted at a Dewey offer, made by Mason Owlett of Pennsylvania, to support Taft's close friend, Brown, provided Gabrielson agreed to step out.

It was tempting bait, but Brown didn't bite.

"I am not a candidate," he told Owlett. "I have come out for Gabe and I won't let him down."

MISSISSIPPI VETOES HALLECK

At one point when Indiana's Charlie Halleck was proposed as a compromise by Deweyites, Perry Howard, Negro national committeeman from Mississippi, threatened to resign.

"I can't face my colored friends and tell them I have been a party to any such compromise," Howard announced at the secret session. "I am opposed to Charlie Halleck and will step out if he is chosen as our leader."

Polio Not As Bad As Looks

Peak To Come Earlier Than 1948

Washington, (SS)—Soaring figures for infantile paralysis cases this year may not be as bad as they lok at first glance, U. S. Public Health Service officials decalred today.

The bad news—that there were more new cases of polio reported last week than during the worst week of last year's heavy attack of the disease—may mean only that the peak for polio cases will come sooner than it did in 1948. Despite the high total for the week, it was noted encouragingly, that only three geographical areas reported significant increases during the week ended July 30, for which latest figures have just been tabulated. The polio areas were the Middle Atlantic, East North Central and West North Central states.

During last week, a total of 1,963 new cases were reported, more than the 1,839 for the peak week of September 18, 1948. And the total cases for last year were the second highest on record, making the worst polio year since 1916.

The new figure is far above the 1,213 cases during the corresponding week of last year. Percentagewise, however, the jump is less discouraging. The increase in cases over the previous week was 36 per cent, compared with a 42 per cent gain for the disease the previous week, and 49 per cent the week before that. Thus, while the cases increase, the rate of gain may be slowing.

Twenty states reported an increase of 25 or more cases of polio during the past week and 13 had 50 or more new cases.

Greatest increases were recorded by: New York, which had 200 new cases compared with 113 the previous week; Missouri, which jumped from 73 to 194 cases; Michigan, from 82 cases to 149; Illinois, from 75 to 145 cases; Iowa, from 45 to 83 cases; and Oklahoma, from 80 to 96.

Other states with high totals for the week were: Texas, 95; Minnesota, 91; California, 87; and Indiana, 83.

Total cases since the beginning of the year are now 8,299, compared with only 5,793 for the same period last year. States with the highest total cases since Jan. 1 are: Texas, 1,203; California, 795; Oklahoma, 521; Arkansas, 490; and New York, 472. Last year at this time, the high state totals were: North Carolina, 1,098; California, 1,027; and Texas, 960.

Reindl said that Mrs. Mackey's 9 year old daughter, Mary, saved her mother from further injuries by hitting McCullough in the back with an ax. He suffered a four inch cut. Mrs. Mackey is recovering.

Rep. Potter Has Busy Day

Tuesday U. P. Day In Washington

By ESTHER TUFTY

Washington, D. C. — Tuesday was "My Day" for Congressman Charles Potter.

It was also Upper Peninsula day for three bills on the consent calendar of the Senate passed.

Authorization was granted to Potter's bills for an investigation of the sea lamprey menace, for a fish hatchery to be located in the Upper Peninsula, and approval of a nine-man commission to prepare a plan for a Soo Locks Centennial celebration for 1955.

The director of the Fish and Wildlife service will investigate the abundance, distribution and effect on fishes and control experiments for controlling the menace. The cost will be around $350,000 and the appropriation must still be secured.

The fish hatchery authorization, in which $325,000 is involved, would construct rearing ponds and a hatchery for experimental purposes. The secretary of the interior must pick the location.

The Soo Locks proposal, which was introduced in the Senate by Senator Vandenberg, will start the planning for the 100th birthday of building the Soo locks. The President will appoint the commissioners. No appropriation was involved.

Betty Charlebois, Former Escanaba Resident, Bride

Of interest in Escanaba, former home of the bride and her parents, is the wedding of Betty J. Charlebois, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Charlebois, 24825 Boston Avenue, Dearborn, Mich., and Robert E. Gallagher, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Gallagher, which took place July 23.

The altar of Sacred Heart church was decorated with two large fan shaped arrangements of white gladioli, for the ten a. m. ceremony. Fr. Leo Smith offered the nuptial Mass.

The bride came down the aisle with her father in a wedding gown of white satin and chantilly lace. The high round neckline of illusion accented the rows of lace forming an off-shoulder effect. The sleeves were long and fitted and ended in points at the wrists. The full hooped skirt was fashioned of eight tiers of alternating lace and satin and ended in an aisle-wide cathedral length train edged with the lace. A tiny crown of orange blossoms held the fingertip lace bordered veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of gardenias, gladioli and white carnations. A diamond lavaliere that was worn by the bride's mother and her two sisters at their weddings was her only jewelry.

Bridal Aided

Verlie Charlebois was her sister's maid of honor and wore a blue summer taffeta gown. The double shawl collar formed a portrait neckline. The bodice was fitted and the full skirt ended in a bustle. Her open-crowned marquisette picture hat was trimmed with yellow satin ribbon tied in a big bow with streamers. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink gladioli and yellow carnations.

Mrs. Walter Gurski, sister of the bridegroom wore a yellow taffeta frock, as did Mrs. Robert Gallant the other bridesmaid. They were dressed like the maid of honor. Their picture hats were trimmed with blue satin bows and streamers. Their flowers were pink gladioli and red roses.

Morey Church, nephew of the bride carried the rings on a satin pillow.

Patricia Gallagher niece of the bridegroom was the little flower girl and wore an orchid taffeta hoop-skirted gown trimmed with purple velvet, scalloping on the fitted bodice. Her half bonnet of taffeta was also trimmed with purple velvet. Patty carried a colonial bouquet, too.

James Gallagher, Jr., served his brother as best man. The ushers were, Eugene Gallagher, another brother of the bridegroom, and Thomas Auld, of Wyandotte, Nash Lowry, and Walter Gurski, of Dearborn.

Breakfast and Reception

The bride's mother wore a navy blue crepe dress with a shirred marquisette bodice. Her white panama hat was trimmed with navy blue veiling and white roses. Mrs. Gallagher chose a palette blue satin dress with front draping and self covered buttons. Her accessories were navy blue. Both mothers were talisman roses.

Immediately following the ceremony a breakfast was served to the immediate families at the Schawood Inn. In the evening a reception was held for 200 guests.

For a honeymoon at Houghton Lake the bride traveled in a pink organdy dress with white accessories. Upon their return they will reside in Dearborn.

Both are graduates of Dearborn high school and Bob served with the Army in the Phillipines.

Today's Recipes

Here is a recipe for maging soap, requested recently. It comes from a reader who has used it for nearly 40 years and has never had a failure with it.

Hard Soap

5 pounds clear grease or
5½ pounds scraps
2 gallons water
½ to 1 pound borax
1 can lye

Put grease into kettle and put one gallon soft water in and bring to boil. Put one gallon water into crock; put lye in it and stir till dissolved. Then pour into grease and water and boil one hour. Remove from fire and stir in ½ to one pound borax to whiten soap. (I have made soap without borax.) Put into shallow pans. Cool and cut into squares. I use cracklings and meat rines. Make in an iron kettle but granite can be used. This recipe is so simple and easy to make.

Fathometer Installed In Emil Perow's Boat

When Emil Perow, 1314 First avenue south, well known commercial fisherman, starts out in his all-steel boat, the James E., this week to fish for whitefish and chubs, he will have the services of a new navigation aid—the fathometer.

This electronic sounding apparatus is the first of its kind installed in a commercial fishing boat in the Escanaba area. Returning late in July from a vacation trip to California, Perow began installation of the fathometer and was all set for a resumption of fishing operations last weekend.

Guide to Good Fishing

With the fathometer, Perow has at all times an unerring indication of the depth of the water benaath the keel of the James E. He can determine his location, despite fog and storm, by matching a series of his depth readings with charts from the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Alert fishing skippers use this echo-sounder to take them back again and again to the exact spots on underwater banks and ledges which have previously been found good fishing. And they "stay on the fish" by using the fathometer to follow a desired depth contour. Perow's fathometer will make soundings to a depth of 600 feet or 100 fathoms.

The nature of the lake bottom is indicated by the fathometer.

"If there is a stone bottom, a white light shows up on the fathometer dial," Perow explained. "When there is a sandy bottom, I get a red light. A muddy bottom is indicated by yellow."

Perow expects that he will be able to get bigger hauls in the future with his fathometer as a guide. For instance, walleyes usually can be found in rocky areas at the close of spawning season. Herring and whitefish spawn on rock and sand bottoms. By locating waters with certain types of bottom, Perow explains, he figures he will be going where the fishing is good.

How It Operates

The fathometer has been described as a "mechanical eye", an "automatic ear," and an "electronic brain." From an engineering standpoint, it is actually none of these, but from the literal viewpoint of the average man, his depth sounder functions like all three.

First of all the fathometer sends out a high-frequency sound vibration from the transmitting unit in the bottom of the ship. Swiftly this sound travels to the lake floor and comes back as an echo. It is caught by a receiver and carried as electrical impulses to an indicator, located in the wheelhouse. There a luminous finger points to the section of the scale which corresponds to the depth of the water under the keel.

If the lake bottom is broken and rough, the moving finger jumps about on the scale; if the floor bottom is shelving, it varies; when the bottom is smooth, and depth is constant, it remains fixed in one spot. If there is a school of fish, the moving finger changes its characteristics to tell this story.

[illegible]

The story of the fathometer is as fascinating as the history of the compass. Originally the Submarine Signal company invented and manufactured the submarine bell and other equipment for signalling under water. In 1903 the first of these submarine bells was installed on Lightvessel No. 54 in Boston harbor.

Continued experimentation with underwater sound led to the development of the Fessenden oscillator, which first proved its ability to determine depth on board the U. S. cutter Miami, on ice patrol, shortly after the tragic loss of the S. S. Titanic in 1912. There was constant improvement until in 1924 another demonstration on the S. S. Berkshire proved the fathometer's unerring accuracy in measuring depth under any condition of weather.

Perow has been engaged in commercial fishing for about twenty years. His James E., an 18-ton all-steel boat 35 feet long and 11½ feet in beam, was built for him in 1946 by the Marinette Marine corporation. Last summer, he replaced the power plant with a 67 horsepower Caterpillar diesel engine. Its [illegible] rate is 11 to 12 miles per hour.

Perow [illegible] helpers Clarence and Raymond Hansen. They fish for whitefish in the vicinity of Minneapolis Shoal.

Free Ride To Mars Offered Columnist

By HAL BOYLE

New York, (AP)—Every year or so a man opens his morning mail and finds a pleasant surprise—or a real opportunity.

That's how lucky I am today.

Boyle

I've got a chance to take a free ride to Mars!

Each day I get all sorts of odd invitations. One day somebody wants me to go over to the Waldorf-Astoria to attend a cocktail party for a new tractor. Another day an opportunity comes to be a judge in a contest to "pick the most beautiful pigeon in America." It turned out to be a complete waste of time—all the pigeons had feathers.

But this is the first time anybody ever offered me a hitchhike ride to Mars. I would be suspicious that somebody was just pulling my leg except for one thing—the man who made the offer said he had already been there himself. So it must be the 24-karat McCoy.

The invitation came in a letter from a gentleman in Missouri, and his first name isn't Harry.

"I have just come back from Mars, and I had a wonderful trip," he wrote. He explained he wanted me to accompany him on his second trip, because he wished the people of earth to have a word picture of life on Mars. He said that as a professional writer I would be able to do this better than he.

The voyage certainly sounded attractive as he outlined it.

"We will be gone only a few days," he wrote, "for the simple reason that our rocket ship begins to gain speed as soon as it leaves the atmosphere, and we travel about as fast as light.

"The only hazardous part of this trip would be in landing when we get there. However, our pilot is so efficient that, when we strike the atmosphere of Mars, he can sail around the planet three or four times until our speed is slow enough to make a smooth landing."

What is Mars like? Here's what the man says:

"I'll not go much into the details of the conditions that I found there, because it was more wonderful than my vocabulary is capable of telling you.

"The planet revolves as ours does, but in place of having a magnetic pole, it also revolves north to south, which makes the temperature uniform the year round.

"There are no seasons. It is all just one glorious temperature. They have no pests, such as flies and fleas.

"The food grows on trees. They have innerspring matresses growing on bushes. There is no rain except just as the sun comes up in the morning.

"There is no work to be done. Everything that man desires is right there at his hand. The springs that come out of the little hills, which they call mountains, have a flavor with an intoxicating effect."

Well, at first I felt tempted to go. But I decided it would put too great a strain on my honesty.

If I got to Mars and found food growing on the trees and joy juice bubbling out of the rocks, I wouldn't want to come back and advertise the place. That'd empty California overnight, depopulate Texas—and crowd Mars.

No. if Mars was like that I'd stake me out a claim—and throw rocks at anybody else that tried to land.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Specs And I See Eye To Eye

Asked Specs Allen to go hunting last week. Known him all my life, so I wasn't surprised when he showed up with no gun. Specs doesn't like to kill anything.

Couldn't ask for a better hunting companion, though. We tramp around the woods, and whenever the dogs flush a bird, I blaze away while Specs just watches.

Told him once I was surprised he went along . . . feeling the way he does about shooting anything. "Well, Joe," he says, "you do what you think is right and I'll stick to what I think is right. I've no call to dislike you for not seeing everything the way I see it."

From where I sit, open-mindedness is a wonderful quality. There are plenty of things Specs admires that I don't care for. Like his fondness for buttermilk. I'd rather have a glass of beer anytime . . . but Specs Allen and I don't let little differences get in the way of something big like friendship.

WHITE TO BLACK

In contrast to the snowy owl, which is black when young, there is the booby, a species of gannet, which grows from a snow-white fledgling into a black-plumed adult.

The antelope jack rabbit gets its name from its habit of "flashing" the white hairs on its rump, in the manner of pronghorn antelopes.

Band to Have Busy Week

Three Out-of-Town Concerts Booked

This will be a busy week for the members of the Manistique Municipal band according to the schedule of activities announced by director Ferd Gorsche. Three out-of-town engagements and a home concert will serve to keep the bandsmen occupied with musical matters for this week at least.

Sunday evening the band presented a concert at the Nahma Community Clubhouse under the sponsorship of the Nahma Lions Club. Despite the warm evening a sizeable crowd was on hand and proved a very receptive audience to the band's offerings. Especially enjoyed was Max Naylor's marimba solo on "Arabian Fantasy", and he was obliged to favor with an encore.

This evening the band will journey to Munising to take part in the annual Firemen's Convention. A concert and a parade will be on the program this evening for the Manistiqque musicians and the convention officials have assured the band that they will be treated as "visiting firemen."

The weekly concert will be given on Friday night this week and will be held at the courthouse grounds at 9:30. The program will be announced later.

On Sunday the band will again be the guests of the city of Mackinac Island. There, they will present a concert and marching demonstration as part of the Mackinac Island V-J Day celebration. The band presented a similar program on the Island in June, and at that time was asked to return for a repeat performance. The trip to the straits will be made by bus and private car from where the state ferry will transport the boys to Mackinac Island.

The band hopes that by undertaking such engagements it can prove its value to the community as a spreader of "good will" and in some way substantiate the band's desire for a community band shell.

Gulliver Planning Club Members Have Old Time Shindig

The attendance was not up to par at the last regular meeting of the Gulliver Community Planning Club, according to Tillie Nielsen, club secretary, but it turned out to be one of the most successful social gatherings that that community has seen in many a day—or more correctly many a night.

A splendid lunch followed the brief business session, says Mrs. Nielsen, and then the rest of the evening was given over to an old fashioned square dance session. More sessions of that nature are planned and special efforts will be made to get out a crowd.

Trouble At Soo Causes Cutoff Of Current Here

Operations at the paper mill flume were generally blamed for the electric current cutoff from about 9:10 to 10:20 Tuesday morning, but the fault was not local. The blackout, Fred Williams, at the power and light office, was due to some breakdown at Sault Ste. Marie.

The cutoff came without warning, said Williams and it was believed that the current would be on in a few minutes. When word was received that the trouble was a serious one, the diesel driven dynamos at the paper mill were put into service.

The trouble at the Soo was not corrected until evening.

Don Cossacks Here Sept. 24

Advance Ticket Sale To Begin Soon

The Don Cossacks will be in Manistique on the evening of Saturday, September 20.

Through arrangements made by the Manistique Music association, this world famous male chorus—made up of natives of the Siberian Steppes—will present a concert on that date.

The Cossacks were scheduled to appear here, under the same local auspices last March, but the singers were forced to cancel the engagement because they were shortly to leave on a European concert tour and had to be in New York sooner than was expected.

This remarkable organization has sung in more than ten thousand concerts and in practically every country in the world.

Norman Martin, secretary of the Manistique Music Association announces that the advance sale of tickets for this concert will be available soon.

In taking on this engagement the sponsors have assumed an unusually heavy responsibility and for that reason the sale of tickets will be intensively pushed. Local business firms will not be asked to subsidize the entertainment by program advertising, as has been the case with other high quality concerts the association has sponsored. A number of merchants complained about this sort of thing. For that reason, the expense will be met by ticket sales alone. Mr. Martin adds that the promise of further quality entertainment of this sort depends entirely upon the way the Don Cossacks are supported.

Wheat Allotment Notices Mailed By County AAA

Notices of 1950 wheat acreage allotments for all known wheat farms in Schoolcraft county were mailed on August 5, 1949 to all persons having an interest in these farms, according to Norman Stauffer, chairman of the Schoolcraft County AAA committee.

Any person who does not receive a wheat allotment notice through the mail and who believes that they should receive an allotment are advised to call at the new county AAA office, 162 River street, Manistique, Mich. as soon as possible but not later than August 20, 1949.

The chairman pointed out that while farmers are not obligated by law to follow their wheat acreage allotments, those farmers who do plant in excess of their allotments will not be eligible for government loans or purchase agreements on any of their 1950 wheat crop under the provisions of the price support program.

Farmers who have received allotment notices through the mail and who may have questions concerning them or who may be dissatisfied with the allotments as established by the county AAA committee are advised that they may appeal their allotments and that such appeals must be filed within 15 days of August 5, 1949, the date on which the allotment notices were postmarked.

Schoolcraft county potato growers are reminded that they must sign a certificate of eligibility prior to harvest or September 1, whichever is earlier, if they desire to participate in the 1949 potato price support program.

Norman Stauffer, chairman of the Schoolcraft County AAA committee, said that only those growers who have planted within their assigned acreage goal or those who, unassigned a goal, have planted 3 acres or less, will be eligible to sign certificate of eligibility.

The basic support prices will range from $1.50 in August, 1949, to $2.15 in March, 1950.

Full information about the support program for potatoes and the certificated of eligibility may be obtained from the county AAA office, 162 East River street, at the new location in the Farmer's Implement Co. Building.

Charles Defends Title Tonight Against Lesnevich

Negro Champ 5-18 Favorite

Opening Gong at 9 In Yankee Stadium

By JACK HAND

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—Ezzard Charles rules a solid 5 to 18 favorite to punch 34-year-old Gus Lesnevich full of holes tonight at Yankee stadium in the first defense of his newly-won NBA heavyweight boxing championship. The 15-round bout is scheduled for 9 p. m. (EST).

Only 49 days after he cautiously outboxed Jersey Joe Walcott to win the crown, the lean 28-year-old Cincinnati Negro rushes to the post in an effort to convince New York skeptics of his right to be called "champ."

No matter how soon he may knock out Gus, if at all, Charles will not be champ in New York state. Eddie Eagan, chairman of the state athletic commission, has ruled the winner must meet Lee Savold or "some suitable opponent" before he gives his official blessing. Ezzard is king in the other 47 states.

Charles can solidify his position with the fans who pay the freight if he can stop Lesnevich, the fellow he hounded for years when Gus held the lightheavyweight crown.

It figures to be a good fight, while it lasts, perhaps even sensational, for Lesnevich is prepared to shoot the works early. The vet from Cliffside Park, N. J. can punch with either hand. He says he will go to Charles' body but may surprise by head-hunting with his stiff left hook. At 18 to 5 he's worth a second look.

As for Charles, he can bide his time. He may choose to rush out for a quick kill, trying to erase the unpleasant memories of previous New York appearances. Chances are he'll let Gus come in and sharp shoot in hopes of reopening the old cuts and scar tissue around the challenger's eyes. If Izzy takes his time, it could go the route.

The fight has failed to excite the general public which seems to be more engrossed in the fortunes of the Dodgers and Yankees. Jim Morris, president of the International Boxing Club which is promoting its first of four scheduled New York outdoor shows, hopes for $150,000 and over 20,000 fans. He'll probably settle for $100,000.

The weatherman says there is a threat of thundershowers late tonight but he thinks they will come after the fight. "Warm and humid" is forecast.

Charles is bitter at the New York commission for failing to recognize him as champ.

"I'm the champ in New York, too, no matter what anybody says," said Ezzard, "I'll take on all comers, but if some people can't make up their minds now, will they ever be able to make them up?"

Ezzard has had trouble keeping his weight up during the hot weather. He is expected to weigh in at the Garden today at about 178 pounds. Lesnevich, now resting at his New Jersey home, probably will hit 182, a welcome relief after starving himself to make the 175-pound limit in his last two major losing fights against Freddie Mills and Joey Maxim.

Softball

Tonight's softball games will be the last this week in the local leagues. No games are scheduled for Thursday to permit the reconditioning of the diamonds for the district tournament that opens Friday.

The games tonight follow: Memorial Field—K. of C. vs. Power and Light, 7:15; Paper Mill vs. Larmays, 8:45; White Birch vs. Liberty Loan at Royce Park.

The Paper Mill defeated the Merchants, 8 to 3, at Royce Park last night. Dave Larson and L'Houillier each got two hits for the winners.

The score of the Escanaba Married Women and Danforth 4-H ended in a tie 11-11. Still tiedup up at the end of the eighth inning, the umpire called the game on account of darkness. The game will be played at a later date.

If the Gloves win this postponed game against the Danforth 4-H, the standings will show the Delta Hardware and Gloves tied for first place. The Gloves defeated the Delta Hardware 17-10 in a six-inning game called by darkness.

Escanaba Cubs To Play Munising Here Tonight

The Escanaba Cubs will play the Munising Lions in a make-up Waubung league game tonight at City diamond, weather permitting. The game is scheduled for six o'clock and all Cub players are asked by Manager Al Ness to report at the dressing quarters no later than five o'clock.

The Munising game is expected to be the hardest struggle of the season for the Cubs, who are undefeated in league play this year. The Cubs tipped the Munising team, 4 to 1, at Munising earlier in the season in a hard fought battle and Munising will be out to give the Escanaba team its first league defeat. The game was postponed by rain several weeks ago.

Tonight's game will be the ninth Waubung league game for the Cubs, who will windup their season here against Gladstone next Sunday.

Manager Al Ness announced that Bob Paterick, the Cubs' reliable left hander, will hurl against Mu- left hander, will hurl against Mnnising. The batting order follows: Schwalbach ss, Johnston 2b, Olson 3b, Nyquist 1b, Sedenquist c, Baldwin cf, Kutches lf, Greis rf and Paterick, pitching.

Among the players who are being requested to report for action are Phil Sullivan, Hilmer Johnson, Pete Derwin, Toodles Flath, Pete Benard, Joe Gardner, Fred Gardner, Art Gardner, John Chriske, Bill Ranguette, Phil Brazeau, Warren Johnston, Curtis Johnston, Harry Jamar, Mac McGovern, John Andrews, Bill Puckelwartz and any other old timers who would like to play an inning or two against the Cubs.

Bobo Wins Two For Chattanooga

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 10 (AP)—Bobo Newsom, who pitched for a great variety of big league teams including the Detroit Tigers, pulled the iron man stunt here last night to pitch Chattanooga to double victories over Little Rock in the Southern Association.

Newsom won his games 10-6 and 9-6.

He tossed a 7-hitter in the opener, allowing but three earned runs and went all the way in in the 9-inning second game settling down after a shaky start to grow stronger at the end.

It was his 14th and 15th victories of the year, against eight defeats, for the last place Lookouts.

Bob Mann May Be Lion's Safety Man

Ypsilanti, Mich., Aug. 10 (AP)—Speedy Bob Mann, the former University of Michigan end, may be installed as the Detroit Lions' safety man when National Football league play begins this fall.

Detroit Coach Bo McMillin gave him a tryout in that spot yesterday with the red-jersied team. The Lions are training on the Michigan Normal campus.

Harness Race Classic Today

Bangaway Favorite In Hambletonian

By JOHN CHANDLER

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 10. (AP)—The 24th Hambletonian stake, the world's most famous harness racing classic, comes up for decision today at picturesque Good Time park.

With 18 three-year-olds, cream of the trotting business, entered, the old timers were predicting a wide-open affair such as this quaint old Orange county village probably has never witnessed before.

Many of the top drivers on the Grand Circuit, from 76-year-old Ben White to 29-year-old Del Cameron, are slated to be in the sulkies shooting for top money in the $69,791 purse.

An expected crowd of 20,000 or more probably will establish Bangaway the 3 to 1 favorite, despite his racing luck draw for post position which gave him the No. 18 spot in the bulky field.

Owned by C. M. Saunders of Toledo, Ohio, Bangaway has never sharper, having won four straight races. The Saunders colt will have Ralph Baldwin at the reins.

At Least 3 Heats

Second choice, at 5 to 1, probably will be Martha Doyle, a trim filly speedster carrying the colors of Al Derby, the Kansas oil man, from Wichita.

Martha Doyle, with Frank Ervin driving, will have the coveted No. 1 rail position.

Contrary to the usual procedure, officials decided to get the field away in two tiers of nine horses back of the mobile starting gate. Ordinarily only eight are placed in a row, which would have meant a third tier for Bangaway, and the No. 17 horse, Juke Box, owned by Frank Foster of Marion, Ohio.

Most experts believed the race would require at least three heats. The horse winning two will net first money of $37,617.

Joining Martha Doyle in the first tier of nine will be, in order: Record Express, L. E. Lake, Colfax, Ind.; Scotch Pal, Hayes Fair Acres, Du Quoin, Ill.; Boysy Hanover, P. R. Whiting, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Guy Ambassador, O. L. Mears, Toledo, Ohio; Rocco Hanover, Charles Ruderman, Gouverneur, N. Y.; Volume, Coldstream Stud, Lexington, Ky.; St. Clair, C. W. Phellis, Greenwich, Conn.; and Fibber, Arden Homstead Stable, Goshen.

The second row in order from 10 to 18; Rosamond, Gib White, Lexington, Ky.; William Wells, J. J. McIntyre, Hollins, Va.; Delhi Lady, H. C. Wilson, Murfreeboro, Tenn.; Elaine Sterling, Harrison Hoyt,, Bethel, Conn.; Crossbow, Dunbar Bostwick, Shelburne, Vt.; Miss Tilly, C. W. Phellis; Atomic Maid, Hayes Fair Acres; Juke Box, Frank Foster; and Bangaway.

Tigers Clout 11-5 Victory

Extra Base Blows Rout White Sox

Detroit, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers celebrated their return to Briggs Stadium last night with a barrage of extra-base hits that added up to an 11 to 5 win over Chicago.

Home runs by Johnny Groth and Johnny Lipon, two doubles by Vic Wertz and another two-bagger off the bat of George Kell made Freddy Hutchinson's tenth victory of the year a lopsided one.

Today lefty Hal Newhouser goes after win number 12 against Mickey Haefner of the White Sox, and he can't ask for better support than the Tigers gave Hutch.

The game began as a pitcher's battle but ended in something of a rout for young Bill Wight, White Sox hurler who had beaten the Detroit team three times this year.

He and Hutchinson pitched scoreless ball for three innings. In the fourth, Cass Michaels' double and Johnny Ostroski's single gave the visitors a run, but that was all they could get until the seventh.

Open Up In Sixth

The Tigers came back in their half of the fourth and collected two scores. Don Kolloway, formerly of the White Sox, started things off with a single. Kell doubled him to third, and Wertz knocked both of them in with his double before anyone was out.

Then Wight tightened up and got through the rest of that inning and the fifth without further damage. Detroit went to town on him in the sixth.

One run scored as Kolloway, Wertz and Groth hit singles. Then Wight walked Hoot Evers to load the bases. Lipon emptied them with his third homer of the year, and the score was 7 to 1.

In the seventh the placid Sox became ferocious enough to send Hutchinson to the showers. Successive singles by Ostrowski, Charley Kress and George Metkovich scored a run and convinced Detroit Manager Red Rolfe that was enough for Freddy.

He sent in Teddy Gray, who promptly walked the first two batters to face him, forcing in another Chicago score. Dave Philley's single brought in two more. But Gray then got the side out without any more scoring.

Groth was the star of the final Tiger rally, in the home half of the seventh. Matt Surkont, who took over the Chicago pitching after Wight was lifted for a pinch batter, walked Kolloway. Kell moved him to third with a Texas League single into left, and Wertz' second double sent Don home. That ran Vic's runs-batted-in total to 95.

Ed Klieman came in to pitch then, and Groth blasted his tenth homer of the year into the left-field stands by way of greeting. Evers' single did no more damage, as Hoot went out stealing to end the inning.

Gray kept the Sox in check for the last two innings to preserve Hutchinson's victory.

Boston Licks Yanks; Cleveland Also Wins

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

If the Boston Red Sox ever catch up with the New York Yankees in their season-long American league pennant chase, most of the credit must be given to their much maligned pitching staff.

In the last five weeks, during which time the Red Sox have picked up six and a half games on the front-running Yankees, Boston hurlers have pitched 25 complete games in 34 starts. As a result, they've won 25 of them to whittle their deficit to five and a half games. On July 4 the Red Sox trailed the leaders by 12 games.

Ellis Kinder, the Red Sox' righthanded ace, is the latest to go the route. He finished what he started last night, beating the Yankees, 6-3, for his 13th victory against five losses. It marked Kinder's ninth conquest in his last 10 decisions and his 10th complete game.

Mel Parnell, Boston's southpaw ace, who leads all the pitchers with 16 victories, also owns the most complete games, 19. Joe Dobson has nine route-going jobs, Lefty McDermott has six out of eight and Chuck Stobbs, seven out of 11.

Kinder permitted the Yankees 10 hits, including a pair of home runs by outfielder Hank Bauer, but an early 5-0 lead furnished by Birdie Tebbetts and Ted Williams carried him through. Tebbetts parked one of Vic Raschi's offerings for a two-run homer in the second, and Williams duplicated the catcher's feat in the third.

A capacity crowd of 25,691 was made happy by Boston's first victory of the season over Raschi, a note of disappointment crept in, however, by the inability of Dom DiMaggio to prolong his consecutive game hitting streak. The Red Sox centerfielder, who had hit in 34 consecutive games, was held hitless in five trips to the plate.

Williams' homer, his 28th of the season, was the 250th of his career.

The triumph, Boston's 12th in 15 starts in this current home stand, left the third place Bossox still a game behind the runerup Cleveland Indians. The Tribe whipped the St. Louis Browns, 9-2, to reduce the Yankees' lead to four and a half games.

Bob Feller gained his fourth straight and 10th victory of the season as the Indians ended a three-game losing streak. The star righthander aided his own cause with a bases-loaded single in the fifth and a double in the eighth.

The fourth place Philadelphia Athletics and fifth place Detroit Tigers won their games, to move forward also. The A's, aided by 15 bases on balls, defeated Washington, 8-3, and the Tigers walloped the Chicago White Sox 11-5. The A's are now 7½ games behind, the Tigers 9.

Brooklyn and St. Louis continued in their first place National league deadlock. The Dodgers whiped the Philadelphia Phils, 8-1, and the Cardinals won from Cincinnati, 4-1. The New York Giants protected their hold on third place by edging out the Boston Braves, 4-3. In the only daylight contest, the Pittsburgh Piraes slugged the Chicago Cubs, 8-3.

Rookie Carl Erskine hurled three-hit ball for Brooklyn. He lost his shutout in the ninth when Bill Nicholson tripled and scored on a fielder's choice.

Southpaw Harry Brecheen permitted the Reds only seven hits and did not issue a pass to post his ninth victory for the Cardinals. He helped his cause with a single and triple.

All Home Games Will Be at Night

Seven football games have been scheduled for the St. Joseph Trojans this season and negotiations are developing for an eighth game that would complete the schedule, Father Stephens, athletic director, has announced.

Coach Tom St. Germain has called out the Trojan gridders for the first meeting at the St. Joseph gymnasium next Monday. Trojan gridders are asked to register at the rectory this week.

The schedule follows:

Oct. 28—Stephenson, there, 1:30 CST.

Mangrum Wins All American

World Championship Tournament Next

By JERRY LISKA

Chicago, Aug. 10 (AP)—Fresh from the battle of three-foot putts in the All-American professional meet, triumphant Lloyd Mangrum and vanquished Sammy Snead tomorrow will square off for really big money in the $35,200 "World" Championship of Golf.

Mangrum yesterday continued his amazing wizzardry on his home Tam O'Shanter course with a 13-sub-par, 276-stroke All-American triumph.

Mangrum cooly dropped in a three-footer on the 72nd green after Snead some 90 minutes earlier had fizzled a tap from the same distance on the final hole. That $1,000 miss cost Snead a chance to force Mangrum into a playoff for the top $3,333 swag.

Sambo, who started the final round five strokes behind Mangrum, uncorked a brilliant closing 68, but it was only good for 277 and runner-up dough of $2,333.

Snead, whose season's winnings now are $25,893, and Mangrum, third with $20,548, top a 64-player field which will set sail tomorrow in Promoter George S. May's lush "world" showdown over 72 holes.

Not only Mangrum, who now has collected roughly $26,000 in three straight tourneys at Tam, but also National Open Champion Cary Middlecoff can pass Snead in the year's money-winning column with luck in the "world." This meet pays off $10,000, $7,000 and $5,000 for the top three places.

Middlecoff still holds second place with $22,104 cash-collecting despite his feeble tie for 21st and a $180 prize at 287 in the All-American.

There was a four-stroke gap between Snead and the third-place All-American finishers at 281, including Johnny Bulla, Chick Harbert and Toney Penna whose efforts won them $944 each. A stroke behind at 282 and winning $525 each were Herman Keiser, Fred Haas, Henry Ransom and Pete Cooper.

Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., collected $258.25 for his 285 score. Randall Ahern, a Northville, Mich., amateur, had 313.

Warming up properly for the concurrent amateur and feminine "world" competition were Frank Stranahan, who retained his All-American amateur crown and Pro Louise Suggs, the All-American women's open winner.

Miss Suggs walked off with the $1,200 Women's Pro top money by posting a one-under-par 303. Second and winning $650 was dethroned Champion Babe Zaharias at 397.

Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., won eighth spot in the Women's All-American and was named as one of eight players to take part in the "World" Women's Amateur competition.

Another Michigan amateur, Shirley Spork of Detroit, carded a 333 for the All-American. The same score won Professional Sally Sessions of Muskegon a prize of $80.

New Teachers Get Contracts

Total Turnover 22 In City Schools

Contracts were approved by the Escanaba board of education in meeting last night for two new teachers, bringing the total turnover this year to 22 in the school system. Marriage and other reasons accounted for much of the change, with only six leaving to seek positions elsewhere, Supt. John A. Lemmer reported.

Miss Ellen Jarvenpas, South Range, graduate of Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette, who has been teaching at Ishpeming, had her contract approved and will teach in the primary department.

Miss Eleanor Knoll, Ironwood, graduate of Michigan State Normal College, Ypsilanti, will teach in the elementary grades following approval of her contract last night.

Amend By-Laws

The board also approved an amendment to its by-laws providing for the appointment of an assistant secretary - treasurer and further providing that no member of the board shall receive any compensation for his service as a member. The only negative vote on the amendment was cast by Trustee Charles E. Lewis, board president and former secretary. In discusion at previous meetings Trustee Lewis opposed the amendment because, he said, it might tend to break down the "checks and balances" of the former system.

Purchase of school equipment and supplies, including furnishings for the senior high library and athletic equipment was approved by the board. Miss Irene Toushak of the superintendent's office staff was appointed assistant secretary-treasurer of the board by unanimous vote.

Reject Site Offer

On recommendation of the buildings and grounds committee of the board an offer of a site for a proposed new senior high school building was rejected because the site and the price were unsatisfactory, and for other reasons. The property is owned by Gothard Arntzen and was inspected by the committee since the board's last meeting.

Book rentals for the coming school year were reported by Supt. Lemmer as follows: Grades 1 and 2—$1.25; grade 3—$1.75; Grades 4, 5 and 6—$2.25; fees in Grades 7, 8 and 9—$2.50; Grade 10—$3; Grades 11 and 12—$3.50.

The administrative committee of the board will consider a recommendation of the superintendent to increase from 20 to 30 days the amount of sick leave that may be accumulated. This leave is allowed for the personal illness of the teachers.

Truman Signs Bill To Unify Defense

Truman. Last March he appealed to congress for legislation "to achieve the most efficient and economical national defense program."

That legislation, covering a series of what he called "urgently needed changes" in the 1947 act that put the three forces under a single cabinet official for the first time, was what was before the president today for his signature.

It contains most of the president's original recommendations, in spite of some rough treatment in its initial handling in the House.

The Senate accepted most of the president's plan but the House passed an abbreviated bill limited to fiscal and budget reforms.

This speeded up Senate and House agreement on legislation which, among other things, would:

(1) Raise the present defense establishment to full cabinet status as an executive department ranking second only to the state department. This will give Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson more power to force greater team play between the three services.

(2) Reduce the Army, Navy and Air Force from executive status to military departments. Actual merger of the three services and their subordinate units—including naval aviation and the marine corps—however, is prohibited.

(3) Set up a permanent chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. The new chairman would have no vote or command authority but would beranking military officer of the nation. His prestige would be enormous. The chiefs of staff, top commanding officers of the Army, Navy and Air Forces, would continue as chief military advisers to the president and the secretary of defense. General Dwight Eisenhower has been acting temporarily as head of the joint chiefs. Gen. Omar Bradley, now army chief of staff, is expected to be named by the president to take over this top job on a regular basis.

(4) Keep at the present title secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force but trim their pay to $14,000 or $1,000 less than they now receive.

(5) Rename the office of under secretary of defense—now held by Stephen Early—"deputy secretary" with rank just below the secretary but ahead of the Army, Navy and Air Force secretaries and $500 a year more pay.

(6) Make the vice president a member of the national security council, top defense advisory group which is headed by the president. Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force would be dropped from this group unless the president asked that they be kept on and the Senate confirmed them for this added duty.

(7) Authorize three assistant secretaries of defense.

(8) Install a business or financial manager, known as a comptroller for the defense department with similar officials in each of the military departments. Sponsors of the legislation say they can save a billion dollars or more annually by eliminating duplications, overlapping and waste.

President Truman has assured congress that the new powers the measure gives Secretary of Defense Johnson "does not mean the creation of one-man rule or dictatorship."

Top Military Men Report On Europe

she could charge it.

Vandenberg argued it is important that no additional heavy burdens be put on the government's spending at this time. He contended the plan would gear the future program more closely to the plans made by the North Atlantic Defense Council which is to be set up.

Another proposal by Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio) would cut the arms program to a stop-gap $600,000,000 for six months.

Vorys favors a program that would run until next March 31 with Congress extending the program if necessary next year.

He suggested $300,000,000 in cash and another $300,000,000 in new and surplus arms and equipment.

Acheson had said he would not favor any stop-gap program.

One of the main objectives of the military chiefs in their trip to Europe was to discuss with Atlantic pact military chiefs possible forms of organization under the new security treaty.

Working groups of representatives of the pact nations may convene next month in Washington to begin implementing their planned defense council.

Greyhound Strike Might End Today; Buses To Be Ready

Anticipating the end today of the 105-day-old strike against the Northland Greyhound lines in eight midwestern states and Canada, supervisory personnel are preparing for the hoped-for start of bus service tomorrow or Friday.

Norman Hansen, Escanaba, regional manager for Northland Greyhound, said it will not be known here until this afternoon whether the strike is ended. Service will be resumed as quickly as possible after the union issues its back-to-work order.

One thousand three hundred striking members of the AFL Motor Coach Employes' union have been told by union leaders that the company's latest proposal provides an "honorable" basis for ending the walkout. The union's executive board has recommended the employes approve the proposal in a vote taken yesterday.

Union officials have disclosed terms of the settlement as follows:

An increase of 35/100 cent per mile for drivers retroactive to Jan. 1 and another cent per mile effective next Jan. 1. an 11-cent hourly pay increase for non-drivers retroactive to Jan. 7, another 1½ cents when they return to work and still another 1½ cetns next Jan. 1.

The 14-cent hourly total for non-drivers compares with an original demand of 15 cents. Drivers asked a half-cent a mile.

The company also made other concessions regarding sick leave and monthly and semi-monthly wage guarantees.

Gladstone Man Has Two Accidents Here Tuesday Afternoon

Walter Lund of Gladstone, Route One, had troubles yesterday afternoon.

While he was driving west on Sheridan road, he stopped behind a car at the arterial intersection. As he was starting, while keeping his eye on a truck stopping for the 'Y' arterial for Stephenson avenue, a car driven by Jerome Cayen, 1406 Second avenue south, going north on Stephenson avenue, hit the left front end of his car, damaging the fender and headlight on Lund's car and the left front of the delivery car driven by Cayen.

After that was cleared up, Lund went into town, and about five minutes after the first accident, he was hit by a car driven by Stanley Jacques of Garden, who was going west on First avenue north in the 1000 block. Lund, who was pulling from the curb, had the left front fender and tire damaged. The first accident was at 4 p. m.

Fred Homer Is Fined For Reckless Driving

Fred Homer of Escanaba, Route One, paid a fine of $50 and court costs in justice court Tuesday afternoon, after pleading guilty to a charge of reckless driving before Justice Henry Ranguette. Homer was arrested by Escanaba police on Ludington street. Alternate in the sentence was 30 days.

Bill Turner Fined, Loses License For Reckless Driving

William S. Turner, 20, Escanaba student of 518 South 11th street, was fined $25 and costs of $8.25, and had his driver's license revoked for 30 days, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving in justice court this morning.

Turner was arrested last night by city police at the intersection of South 15th street and 15th avenue south, near the disposal plant, at 1:15 a. m. after city police had given chase for an hour. Turner was seen speeding 60 mph down Ludington street, after he left the 1300 block of the street. Police followed, trying to stop him, but he continued to Third street, then swung right. Police chased him twice around the south side of town before catching up with him. Turner was accompanied by James Rolfe of 605 Ogden avenue.

Turner's license is the first to be revoked under a new no-driving requirement, through greater use of probationary powers by courts, recommended by the Traffic Court conference of the Michigan Safety conference and the Michigan Association of Judges, with sanction from the attorney general's office.

The resolution recommends a no-driving requirement for not less than 30 days when a driver is convicted of speeding 20 miles or more per hour in excess of the speed limit. The no-driving requirement is a condition of probation is designed to be used in more serious types of traffic violations in a state-wide campaign to reduce accidents.

Robert Desmond Injured Tuesday

Robert Desmond, 29, 322 Stephenson avenue, suffered a double spiral fracture of the left leg about 2:30 p. m., Tuesday afternoon when the wall of a six-foot ditch he was working in caved.

Desmond was laying sewer with a city work crew at South 18th street between South Eighth and Ninth avenues. An ambuance was called by A. V. Aronson, city manager, and Desmond was removed to St. Francis hospital for treatment.

Desmond, who is employed by the city for summer work projects, had his leg caught between the sliding dirt and sewer piping. It is the first time, the city manager said, that a city workman was injured in a ditch cave-in.

Kids Get Two Bargain Days At U. P. Fair

9c Rides And Shows Planned Wed'y, Saturday

Wednesday and Saturday will be kiddies' day at the Upper Peninsula State Fair and special arrangements have been made by the U. P. State Fair and Escanaba merchants to provide bargain rates for shows and rides on those days for the benefit of the children.

A special children's grandstand program will be held at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning, Aug. 17, at which all of the world famed grandstand acts offered at the fair, except the dancing revue, will be presented. A special 9c admission price has been established for this event, provided the kiddies obtain a coupon from cooperating Escanaba merchants. The coupons can be obtained without cost and without obligation at any of the cooperating stores, which include just about all of the business establishments in Escanaba.

A special 9c rate will be provided for midway rides on both Wednesday and Saturday, from 11 a. m. to six p. m. each day. The grandstand show for kiddies will be one day only, Wednesday, however.

The coupons to be distributed by merchants will be available several days in advance of the fair and during fair week until Saturday, Aug. 20.

Gaylord Ranch Shows Herefords

The first livestock entry for the Upper Peninsula State Fair from an exhibitor of Lower Michigan has been received from C. S. McReynolds of the Elmac Hill ranch in Gaylord, Michigan.

McReynolds will show a herd of 15 Hereford beef cattle. The livestock departments, except dairy cattle and poultry, were opened this year to all Michigan exhibitors. Previously these departments were open only to Upper Peninsula exhibitors.

LAND IS FASTER

Land and sea breezes are caused by differences in temperature between adjacent land and water areas. These differences are due to the fact that land areas take on heat and cool off with greater rapidity than do water areas.

"HEAVY WATER"

"Heavy water" is a combination of deutohydrogen and oxygen. All its properties have not yet been determined, but tests have shown that it is poisonous to plants. It is 10 per cent heavier than ordinary water.

Foot experts suggest treating feet to alternate hot and cold foot baths if they show signs of needing comfort and restoration.

Video Booth Is Planned at Fair

A television booth will be erected in the exhibition building at the U. P. State Fair this year and fair patrons may be able to watch television shows.

The Earle Appliance company of Escanaba has been experimenting with television reception here and has reported some good results. The company will make an installation at the fair for experimental purposes.

Grandstand Show Has Variety And Top Rate Acts

A grandstand performance of outstanding ability and variety will be presented on the first four afternoons and evenings of the Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba Aug. 16-21.

In addition to the beautifully costumed State Fair revue, featuring the chorus of precision dancers, the singing of the 3 Melody Notes and the charming dance team of Bernice and Ainsley, there will be a series of outstanding hippodrome acts. They will include the following:

Blomberg's 12 spotted Liberty horses, said to be superior to any act of this kind in the entertainment world today. The horses work loose, breaking into difficult formations and maneuvers. Each of the horses was trained individually for this act.

LeBrac and Bernice, unicycle specialists, a demonstration of rare balancing skill on a one-wheel cycle.

Arturo and Hedy, offering brilliant comedy combined with awe-inspiring skill on a high wire.

Captain Tiebor's trained seals, superbly trained in novelty and difficult balancing acts.

The Gallagher family, celebrated troupe of juvenile acrobats and teeterboard performers—five of them ages 9 to 17 in a succession of stunts demanding the utmost in cooperative effort.

Special Horse Races Booked for Friday at Fair

Horse racing, open to Upper Peninsula horses only, will be a feature at the Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba on Friday, Aug. 19.

Fifty dollars in prizes are offered in a special half mile dash, to be divided $25 for first place, $15 for second and $10 for third. Similar prizes will also be offered in a half mile Indian bareback race.

Contestants must be bonafide residents of the Upper Peninsula for at least 30 days prior to the races, and all horses must have been owned in the Upper Peninsula for that length of time.

Riders will draw for positions from sealed envelopes before each race. The fair board reserves the right to change the order of program or to postpone or cancel races for weather conditions or other unavoidable causes.

Entries must be made with the secretary at least 24 hours before the races. Entry blanks may be secured from the secretary, Harold P. Lindsay, Upper Peninsula State Fair, Escanaba.

Low Prices Again Prevail at Fair

Low admission prices will prevail again this year at the Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba Aug. 16-21. There will be a free gate until five o'clock each afternoon, except Thursday and Sunday.

The grandstand admission prices, both afternoon and evening, are maintained at the usual low level, in keeping with the policy of the fair board. The grandstand show is billed as the biggest entertainment bargain available in the peninsula.

NINE-STATE VISION

At a height of 15 miles, an observer in a stratosphere balloon above Chicago could see nine states with the unaided eye; Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Kentucky, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Grand Canyon of the Colorado is 278 miles long, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica. At one point it is 13 miles wide and 6000 feet deep.

"Twosome Nights" Offer Big Bargain At U.P. State Fair

Tuesday and Friday, Aug. 16 and Aug. 19, will be "Twosome nights" at the Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba and bargain rates for couples will be in effect for the grandstand performances on both evenings.

Two persons will be admitted to the grandstand performances for a single admission price, plus the cost of the government tax for the second ticket.

Coupons for the "twosome" ticket deal can be secured from Escanaba merchants and the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce.

Centennial Fair Has Beauty Contest

Fifty Michigan queens are expected to seek the title "Miss Michigan State Fair" in a beauty contest to be held during Michigan's Centennial State Fair in Detroit September 2 through 11.

Eligible participants are those queens, ages 17 through 25 years, who have won a sponsored Michigan beauty contest during the past year, James D. Friel, Fair manager, announces.

Entries must be made before Wednesday, August 26, on a special entry blank which may be secured by writing the Michigan State Fair, Detroit 3, Michigan.

Selection of "Miss Michigan State Fair" will be made on Governor's Day, September 7. The lucky lady will receive a trophy and will be crowned by Governor G. Mennen Williams as part of the day's ceremonies.

Civic groups, boards of commerce and other organizations may sponsor only one queen and they must pay her expenses.

Fair officials expect that the Cherry Queen, Blue Water Queen, American Legion Veteran Queen, Ski Queen, Apple Queen, Pickerel Queen and scores of others will compete.

New detergents on the market keep glass lustrous. They will come out of the dishpan streakless and not need wiping.

Merry-Go-Round Is Far Cry From Original Models

Lure of all the small fry—and not a few of the oldsters, too—the Merry-Go-Round, to be located on the midway at the Upper Peninsula State Fair Aug. 16-21, represents the latest development in the oldest of all amusement riding devices.

Eye-catching and ear-snaring, the Merry-Go-Round of today is a far cry from the first model built in 1837 by a German wheelright who had stumbled on the idea for the ride while cooling the hot rims of wagon wheels.

Ride By Accident

It was Michael Dentzel's custom to place the rim while hot on a wheel, for as it cooled it contracted and fitted snugly on the wheel. To speed the process sometimes he placed the wheels on a pivot and he sat on the pivot as the wheel moved. Then, to keep his children occupied, he built a small bench onto the pivot and placed them in it, figuring they would thus be safe and comfortable and within sight as he worked.

To his amazement, the children were thrilled. So, too, were neighboring children. Pondering this, Dentzel decided to build a ride using the same principle. And in 1837 he built his first Merry-Go-Round, a crude affair by today's standards, but it proved a sensation.

First U. S. Model In 1867

That first ride was powered by hand. Horse power moved in and eventually was replaced in succession by steam, gasoline or electric-powered motors. The inventor's son. G. A. Dentzel, learned the business and then came to this country, where he built his first Merry-Go-Round in 1867.

Originally the rides consisted of simple benches and figures simulating horses. Later great emphasis was placed upon the beauty and exactness of the horses; hand-chiseled chariots instead of benches, and finally galloping horses were introduced.

Meanwhile tne center pole was transformed into a maze of mirrors, adding a sparkling effect. Lighting, first by oil lamp, then by a multitude of vari-colored light bulbs, heightened the appeal. And, to cap it off, distinctive music from specially designed organs, was used.

Colors Galore

None of the basic features of the early Merry-Go-Rounds or carrousels, as they are called in French, have been removed in the late models. But the new ones abound in more brilliant color, horses made of aluminum and vividly painted, a melange of striking lighting, a captivating use of mirrors and more delightful use of the traditional Merry-Go-Round music.

To the small fry the Merry-Go-Round is the top ride attraction. To the oldsters its sparkling appearance, its gay air and its charming music carry a nostalgic reminder of another day when as youngsters they, too, delighted in riding the brightly painted galloping steeds.

First Entries In 100th State Fair

Exhibitor Pass No. 1 for the Centennial Michigan State Fair has been issued to Mr. and Mrs. Lester C. Finley, 18204 Ridge Road, Northville, Michigan.

The Finleys were the first to make an agricultural entry for the State Fair which will run September 2 through 11 at Detroit. They will have a display of horticultural crops and products and will try to win one of the eight prizes which total $1,650.00 for this section.

Displays may include fruits, vegetables, flowers, honey, jams, jellies, canned fruit juices and other products.

Some of the larger kangaroos, which stand almost as high as a tall man, cover 10 to 20 feet in a single bound.

AMATEUR WINNERS—Winners of the 1948 U. P. State Fair amateur contest, pictured with George Grenholm, master of ceremonies were Nancy and Mary Witham, of Escanaba; Jack Beyers, Marquette, and Paul Coron, Negaunee. They are not eligible to compete in the U. P. State Fair contest this year.

Demand Heavy for Concession Space

The heaviest demand for concession and exhibit space in the history of the U. P. State Fair has been reported this year by Secretary-Manager Harold P. Lindsay.

All large exhibit and concession space was allocated at least a month before the fair. Many large users of space for concession purposes had to be turned down on their applications.

Every type of legitimate concession will be found on the fair midway this year.

5,000 Copies Of Fair Book Printed

Five thousands copies of the 1949 Upper Peninsula State Fair premium book have been printed and distributed throughout the peninsula. Exhibitors of previous years have been mailed copies, as well as Chambers of Commerce offices, agricultural agents, etc.

Persons desiring a copy of the Fair Premium book can get one without charge by writing to the U. P. State Fair office in Escanaba.

"It is a privilege to extend to you the best wishes of the State of Michigan and my own personal greetings.

"The agricultural and forest products of our state constitute one of our major sources of wealth. Everything we can do to improve the quality of these products, and to aid in marketing them throughout the nation, is of the utmost benefit to all our people.

Ferris Wheel Born In Mind Of Farm Boy

Towering over the crowds at the Upper Peninsula State Fair, Aug. 16-21, will be giant Ferris wheels. Affording a high vantage point for all the varied fair activities, it will bear testimony to the brilliant mathematical skill of a young Galesburg, Ill., farm boy in the early 1890's that won him world renown.

Young George Washington Gale Ferris a mathematical prodigy, then fresh from college and thrashing about for some way to impress himself upon the world, heard of plans for the World's Fair planned for 1892 in Chicago. The fair posed a challenge to his mind, "What can I contribute to it?"

Idea Conceived

Mulling that thought over in a Chicago chophouse as work began on the fair, he conceived the idea for the ride. Moreover, then and there, he worked out the details, fixing the size of the ride, setting the number of cars at 36, determining their capacity, planning six stops a revolution for loading, etc.

With only his plan, then not even on paper to go on, he told the fair officials of his idea. And they granted him a location for it, whereupon he set about to draft detailed plans, raise the necessary $380,000 to build it, and then erect it.

Never altered after he first set them in the chophouse, his plans called for a wheel 268 feet high, with a 33-inch diameter; a 44-foot-long shaft, set 150 feet off the ground, and a 60-passenger capacity for each of the cars for a total ride load of 2,160 at one time. With the plans on paper, he raised the money, then a huge sum. He ordered the parts from various manufacturers throughout the country and the parts were shipped to Chicago. Not one had to be altered; all meshed perfectly, a tribute to his mathematical skill.

The ride, which weighed 70 tons was erected and powered by two 1,000 horsepower engines; it proved a tremendous success. In fact, it proved the big attraction of the fair.

Fifty cents was the charge for each ride. Fully loaded the device yielded $1,080 per trip. During the run of the fair it grossed $726,000, leaving a handsome profit after construction costs and payments on a royalty basis to the fair. From Chicago the wheel was taken to the St. Louis Exposition, where it amassed an added $450,000.

Since the original wheel, the design of those which have followed has undergone changes to permit easy transportation from city to city and enable easy tear-down and assembly. Basically, however, the rides, tho smaller in size and capacity, are the same.

Fireworks Display Planned Nightly At U.P. State Fair

All the newest type fireworks now embraced in the pyrotechnical art are certain to thrill both young and old when the fireworks displays commence nightly on the infield of the race track during the Upper Peninsula State Fair Aug. 16-21.

Set-pieces of dazzling beauty, aerial bombshells in the newest of color combinations and beauty, mechanical numbers that will create optical illusions, ground eruptions that will shake the stands, together with the ever-favorite old time numbers, such as the American Flag in waving lines of fire. This, and a lot more are certain to make a hit with the audience.

Contracts have been closed with the same company that produces the fireworks displays at most of the State Fairs throughout the country, the Thearle-Duffield Fireworks Inc., of Chicago. Their factory experts will be here to personally supervise the erection and discharge of the displays, thus assuring the committee the finest possible fireworks displays to secure.

New type patriotic set pieces are certain to stir the patriotism of all who witness the numbers and an ample supply of comedy numbers will bring forth roars of laughter from both young and old. The displays will come to a close nightly with the firing of a special "grand finale" arrangement of aerial bombshells that will cover the entire skies with color and noise as the American flag burns forth on the infield.

A special invitation to children to witness the fireworks displays that will be featured during this year's Fair, has been issued by Secretary-Manager Lindsay.

Numerous comedy and cartoon features will be included in the fireworks program each evening for the special enjoyment of the youngsters.

In addition to this, there will be many new and thrilling ground and mechanical effects that are certain to create "Oh's and ah's" from the children.

Skooting skimmers that whiz back and forth, like birds flying through the air.

Bombshells that whistle weird shrieking effects as they zig zag through the air—futuristic wheels in unusual colors; whirling dervishes in the sky—the old favorite "Niagara Falls" that will illuminate the entire grounds as bright as day, as it casts its million candle power of light.

It is the biggest attraction of it's kind we have ever had at our Fair, Secretary-Manager Harold P. Lindsay said today. "It is a show that not only the kiddies will want to enjoy, but the grown-ups as well."

Popular Science Display Will Be Free Attraction

Previews of Progress, a dynamic stage display of popular science, will be presented as a free attraction by General Motors Corporation at the Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba August 16-21.

Witnessed by millions of Americans in prewar years, Previews of Progress will graphically present many of the most recent developments in scientific research, which will contribute to a more enjoyable and comfortable life in the years to come.

Startling demonstrations will be given of jet propulsion, the manufacture of butyl rubber, artificial illumination, sound recording and other up to the minute discoveries and refinements from the research laboratories of the nation.

The modern application of jet propulsion will be illustrated in two ways. First, a miniature jet engine, operating on the same principal as the German V-1 buzz bomb, will be placed in actual operation after being anchored. The blast of its high pressure flame creates a roar that will be heard for a great distance at the fairgrounds.

Following this demonstration, models of a F-86 plane and a buzz bomb will be driven at high speed the entire length of a special runway, propelled by tiny but powerful jets of compressed gas.

Butyl rubber, base of synthetic tires and tubes will be manufactured with the aid of laboratory equipment right on the stage, in full view of the audience.

One of the most unique demonstrations will be the broadcasting of music over a beam of light. Here is music that is definitely on the beam—a tiny beam from a concentrated arc. This pin point arc is a spot of light that is one tenth the size of a period made by a typewritter, and yet, with it a complete symphony can be reproduced.

A cold stove that actually cooks will be another popular exhibit that will be displayed in Previews of Progress. These experiments will be presented regularly during the Upper Peninsula State Fair and without cost to the Fair patrons.

THRILL DRIVER—Al Gross is one of the Jimmie Lynch Death Dodgers who will perform at the Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba Sunday. Aug. 21.

Amateur Contest Will Be Held At Fair August 17

The Upper Peninsula amateur contest will be presented as a grandstand feature of the Upper Peninsula State Fair Wednesday afternoon, August 17. The Upper Peninsula State Fair will open Tuesday, August 16, and will continue through Sunday, August 21.

The contest will be conducted in three age divisions—up to 13, from 13 to 17, and 17 and over. Winners of previous Upper Peninsula State Fair amateur contests are ineligible to compete in the 1949 event. Winners will receive special prizes in addition to an all expense paid trip to the Michigan State Fair in Detroit.

The amateur show is open to all residents of the Upper Peninsula who can play an instrument, sing, imitate, recite or entertain in any stage presentation. No single act will contain more than two persons.

Contestants are expected to provide their own transportation to the Upper Peninsula State Fair and return, and to pay their expenses while attending the Fair.

Contestants seeking to enter the amateur show are requested to register by sending a card to the Upper Peninsula Amateur Contest, Upper Peninsula State Fair, Escanaba, Michigan.

Big Car Auto Races At Fair On Thursday

Big car Class A automobile races will be featured at the Upper Peninsula State Fair at Escanaba on Thursday, August 18, sanctioned by the International Motor Car Association, it has been announced by the fair secretary, Harold P. Lindsay.

This is the second consecutive year that big car automobile races have been booked for the Upper Peninsula State Fair. The speedsters scored an outstanding hit last year.

Big Ben Musick, who stole the show at Escanaba a year ago, will be back at the Upper Peninsula track this year, but he will be confronted with much stiffer competition this time. Jimmie Wilburn, whose car Musick drove last summer, is among the entries at the Escanaba races, as well as Emory Collins, national IMCA champion, Bill Snyder, George Swangler, Oddie Rask, Bud Stone and a number of other topnotch dirt track dirvers. Wilburn, 1947 national champion, was out of action most of last season because of injuries that he sustained in a smashup at Oscaloosa, Iowa, early in the year.

The Upper Peninsula State Fair races will be a part of the IMCA national championships again this year. Points earned by drivers at the Escanaba races will be credited in the national competition.

A number of new cars, with more powerful motors, are entered in the IMCA contests this year, and new track records throughout the country are being established.

The entire race program will be handled at Escanaba by racing professionals. The official starter, to be assigned by the IMCA, will probably be Frank Winkley, of Minneapolis, who has been the official starter for a majority of the outstanding race programs at tracks throughout the United States.

CAMPAIGN SONG

1948 STATE FAIR QUEEN — Miss Nancy Johnson of Newberry was crowned queen of the U. P. State Fair last year. She is shown here receiving the crown from Mayor Robert LeMire of Escanaba. The queen's contest will be an opening day feature of the fair in Escanaba Aug. 16 this year.

Fair Buildings Will Be Sprayed

The buildings and grounds at the Upper Peninsula State Fair will be given a spraying of DDT before opening day, Aug. 16.

It has been the policy of the fair board to have the area sprayed each year before opening day, with the result that flies and mosquitoes have not been a problem for fair patrons in recent years.

Dairy barns will not be sprayed with DDT, but a special solution, approved by dairy specialists, will be used. The use of DDT in dairy buildings is not recommended, according to dairymen.

The sun constantly is losing weight.

Pistol Tourney Will Be Held At U. P. State Fair

The annual U. P. pistol tournament will be held August 17 and 18, 1949, at the Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba.

The team matches will be held August 17, 8 a. m., to 12 noon, and team captains are urged to be prompt in registering, so that the matches can begin not later than 9 a. m. This match is open to teams from all law enforcement agencies in the Upper Peninsula, and the Departments are grouped into classes A, B and C, depending on the number of men regularly employed as police officers in the department.

The first individual match will begin at 8 a. m., August 18, and competitors are urged to report promptly to the range officer for registration and target assignments. This match is open to anyone residing in the Upper Peninsula, who is over the age of 21, and will be the National Match Police Course.

The second individual match will begin as soon as the first individual match has been completed and will be the Army L Course.

All matches will be governed in strict accordance with the National Rifle Association rules and will be supervised by the range officer. The type of firearms to be used will be any center fire pistol or revolver, which is in good safe operating condition, and with a trigger pull of not less than 2½ pounds, and will be subject to the inspection of the range officer.

.38 special caliber mid-range ammunition will be furnished for the tournament by the State Fair Board. Any competitors using other caliber firearms will be required to furnish their own ammunition.

There will be plenty of trophies and medals to shoot for, and no entry fee will be charged.

Rex Allen, Film Star, Will Be At U. P. Fair

REX ALLEN

Rex Allen, cowboy star of Republic Pictures, will be featured in the WLS National Barn Dance presentation on Saturday, August 20, at the Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba. The Prairie Ramblers, the four busiest boys on the WLS roster, will also show their stuff at the U. P. fair.

Rex Allen has been a cowboy from the day he was born, and his father was a cowboy before him. His dad was born in Ft. Chadborne, Texas and moved to Arizona at the age of 15, the year Arizona was admitted to the Union. As a nester, Rex's dad was persecuted by the big cattlemen, his fences were cut and his herds were killed, but he was determined to stay and carve out a good life for himself and his family.

The war between the cattle men and the homesteader was in full swing when Rex was born. Soon after the cattlemen resigned themselves to the march of progress and called off their war. One of Rex's earliest recollections was being with his dad when he trapped and killed a mountain lion only 50 yards from their house.

Rex learned to ride almost before he learned to walk. When Rex was seven his older brother was bitten by a rattlesnake. Their home was 40 miles from the nearest doctor and the boy died. The family then moved to Willcox.

Rex bought his first guitar at the age of 11 and at the age of 13 he made his radio debut in Phoenix at the State Cattlemen's convention. His high school music teacher entered him in a state contest in 1936 as a soloist and he came home with first prize. After graduation from high school, Rex followed the rodeo circuit. In 1945 he was auditioned by WLS for a top spot on the National Barn dance program. Four years later he signed a movie contract with Republic Films.

Allen is a buddy of Roy Rogers.

NO BETTER SIGHT AT NIGHT

Because its eyes are sensitive to ultra-violet rays, a cat can see better than a human being in the dusk, but it cannot see at night as well as it can during the day.

To save glasses from being cracked during dishwashing, use a rubber mat at the bottom of sink or dishpan.
